

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ANNUAL REPORT

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

JUNE 30, 1906.

HON. ANDREW L. HARRIS, Governor of Ohio:

SIR:—In accordance with law, the Board of Trustees respectfully submits the thirty-sixth annual report of The Ohio State University, it being for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906.

ENDOWMENTS

The part of the irreducible debt of the State which forms the principal endowment of the University, at the date of the last annual report, June 30, 1905, was $695,838.19, on which the annual interest was $41,750.29.

Under the operations of an act of the General Assembly entitled "An act to quiet title to unpatented lands in the Virginia Military District of Ohio," passed March 14, 1889, there has been added to the above principal $8,888.61; from the sale of lot No. 43, Pike county, $37.50, and from the rents and profits of Page Will Lands, and from the sale of said lands the sum of $57,278.44 has been added, making the principal endowment fund June 30, 1906, $762,042.74, on which the annual interest is $45,722.56.

THE WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN PRIZE

The Honorable William Jennings Bryan, on July 20, 1898, gave to the University $250.00, the annual interest thereon to be awarded as a prize for the best essay, discussing the principles which underlie our form of government. This amount was placed in the State Treasury under the provisions of Section 4105-15, R. S. of Ohio, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this principal has been augmented by additions of interest in years when no prize has been awarded, until at the close of the year covered by this report the principal sum has become $360.81, on which the annual interest is $21.65. During the past year no prize was awarded.

THE ROBINSON FELLOWSHIP IN ENGINEERING

January 28, 1905, Stillman W. Robinson, Emeritus Professor of Mechanical Engineering, gave to the University, as an endowment fund for a fellowship in Engineering, $5,000.00. This amount was placed in the State Treasury, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this amount has been increased in years when no fellowship was awarded, until at the close of this year the principal sum is $5,744.03, on which the annual interest is $344.64.

During the past year, the candidates for the fellowship were not able to meet the requirements, and as a result no fellowship was awarded.

THE C. NEWTON BROWN SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The fund donated by the graduates of the Civil Engineering Department, for a fellowship in Civil Engineering, to carry the name of the C. N. Brown Scholarship, in memory of Professor C. Newton Brown, was started May 18, 1903, by a gift of $1,000. On December 1, 1904, a further gift of $92.09 was received, these amounts were at once placed in the State Treasury under statutes above mentioned, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this fund has been increased, and on June 30, 1906, the principal sum was $1,297.54.

SETH ADAMS MEMORIAL FUND

As mentioned in the last annual report, Professor C. S. Plumb, of the Animal Husbandry Department, started on July 1, 1903, a popular subscription among the farmers of Ohio to erect a building for the care of sheep, said building to be named after the late Seth Adams. Starting at the above date with $52.72 this fund has been increased by further donations and additions of interest, and on June 30, 1906, had increased to $420.56, which amount is invested in an interest-bearing certificate of deposit, placed with a local bank.

J. MCLAIN SMITH FUND.

The Honorable J. McLain Smith, a member of the Board of Trustees of this University, died at his home near Dayton, on July 4, 1905. The great loss sustained by the University will be spoken of in the President's report.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees held September 27, 1905, it was brought to the attention of the Board, that the Ohio State University had been made the principal beneficiary and residuary legatee under the will of Mr. Smith.

Under the terms of the will Mr. Smith directed that all property be disposed of; the moneys derived therefrom to be paid into the State Treasury, and the income accruing therefrom to be used by the Trustees in assisting worthy young men and young women in attaining an education, especially the higher technical education, including Agriculture, preference being given to residents of Montgomery county.

Acting under the direction of said Will, the Executors, S. W. Davies and A. A. Thomas, of Dayton, turned over to the Board of Trustees, on March 26, 1906, $15,000.00 and on April 10, 1906, $7,800.00; these amounts were at once paid into the State Treasury in accordance with Section 4105-15, R. S. of Ohio. The interest accruing on said amounts to June 30, 1906, was $341.50, and this amount under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, was added to the principal, making the total principal sum in the State Treasury on June 30, 1906, $23,141.50.

The Executors have assured the Trustees that they will still make a further payment before the estate is closed.

The Board of Trustees has appointed a committee to formulate a practical plan to carry out the wishes of Mr. Smith as outlined in his will.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

DECEMBER 20, 1906.

HON. GUY W. MALLON, President of Board of Trustees, Ohio State University.

DEAR SIR:— I have the honor to present, through you, to the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University for transmission to the Governor of Ohio, as required by law, the thirty-sixth annual report of the President of the Ohio State University for the year ending June 30, 1906.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Early in the year, on July 4, 1905, the University sustained a great loss in the death of Hon. J. McLain Smith. Mr. Smith was appointed to the Board of Trustees by Governor Asa S. Bushnell on May 21, 1897, and served until his death. He was a graduate of Miami University and afterwards admitted to the Bar, although he never engaged in practice. For some years he engaged in editorial work in Dayton, but during his entire lifetime was actively interested in agriculture and stock raising. During his later years he confined his attention exclusively to his farm and correspondence for the agricultural press. For years he served as secretary of the Red Polled Cattle Association, an organization effected largely through his agency. His interest in the University was awakened prior to his appointment as trustee. He gave devoted service, showing interest in all lines of university education, but especial interest in agriculture and the mechanic arts. The extent of his interest in the University is manifest in the fact that after making provision through bequests and annuities for distant relatives, the greater portion of his estate was left to the University for the purpose of assisting in the education of young men and women in higher technical education including agriculture. Mr. Smith was a citizen of irreproachable character who served his community unselfishly in the Senate of Ohio and in various offices of trust in Montgomery County where his life was spent.

During the year the following changes in the Board have occurred: Mr. O. E. Bradfute was appointed trustee to succeed the late Hon. J. McLain Smith, for the term expiring May 13, 1911. Hon. O. T. Corson, whose term expired May 13, 1906, was reappointed for a term of seven years by Governor Harris.

FACULTY

I have to record the death of Albert Henry Heller, Professor of Structural Engineering, on Tuesday, February 20, 1906. Professor Heller was a graduate of the University in the College of Engineering with the class of 1890; served as draftsman for the Massillon Bridge Company and the Mt. Vernon Bridge Company; was assistant chief engineer for the Youngstown Bridge Company; assistant to the Vice President of the American Bridge Company in 1900, and in charge of the Engineering Department of the American Bridge Company when he was called to the professorship in the Ohio State University in 1902. Although only four years in the service of his Alma Mater, Professor Heller had impressed himself upon the Faculty and students as a man of unusual achievement and power. He was a man of the highest integrity, irreproachable in character, expert in his line of engineering, and an efficient teacher universally esteemed by his associates.

Few important changes in the teaching force have occurred during the year, but some new appointments have been made in order to meet the demands of the University in the natural growth and development of facilities already offered. An exhibit of the organization of the University as presented by Trustees and Faculty will be found as an appendix to this report.

ENROLLMENT

For the year just closed the enrollment has reached the number of 2,157 as shown in the summary below. This marks another normal increase in attendance, and demonstrates that for the past decade the University has served the state with increasing efficiency. The increase in the number of students is scattered through the several colleges of the University, and shows a healthy growth in the various departments. The number of degrees granted in 1905 was 209; for 1906, 225. This increase is in keeping with the normal increase in the student body. The summary of students by states and counties reveals some interesting facts. Every one of the eighty-eight counties in Ohio has representation at the University. Franklin County, as usual, heads the list with 638 students, leaving 1,519 non-resident students. The next largest county in enrollment is Montgomery, with a total of sixty-four students. The third county in attendance is Stark with an enrollment of thirty-seven. Two counties, Belmont and Hamilton, have an enrollment of thirty-five. Muskingum has thirty-two. Fairfield and Cuyahoga have thirty-one. Summit County has thirty, and a number of other counties range from fifteen to thirty. It is of interest to note that the counties with the largest population and most prosperous in agriculture and manufacturing, are the counties furnishing students in the largest numbers. Forty-two states and territories are represented in the enrollment, Ohio leading with 1,875 students. The Argentine Republic had fifteen students in residence for the year. The summary of attendance is added, and reference for comparison may be made to page 32 of the report for the year ending June 30, 1904, and to page 25 of the report for the year ending June 30, 1905.

SUMMER SCHOOL WORK

The usual facilities have been maintained at the Lake Laboratory, Cedar Point, near Sandusky, for research and study in biological and botanical science. Under Professor Herbert Osborn as director a competent Faculty has been provided offering unusual facilities for advanced students and teachers in these sciences. The policy of employing a number of this force from other colleges has been continued and proved mutually helpful and entirely satisfactory in results. As announced in the report for the previous year, the summer term, mainly for teachers, was opened and gratifying results were reached. The term opened June 27th and continued for six weeks, closing August 4th. The Board of Trustees appointed a Faculty of twenty persons to give instruction during the six weeks. The total enrollment was one hundred and sixty-five. Every course of study offered was taken by a class sufficiently large to warrant the effort. In addition to the work of instruction a daily lecture on some phase of education was provided by members of the Faculty and non-resident superintendents, presidents of Colleges, and men eminent in their line of work. The total enrollment in all phases of work during the summer was three hundred and forty-two. In view of the fact that the University has made no special effort to develop summer term work, these facts reveal a very decided demand for an enlarged use of the facilities of the University during the summer months. The prospect for an increased attendance at the second term is so flattering as to lead us to believe that this policy of the University for a summer term will meet with an increasing response.

It is not uncommon that certain students fail to receive their degrees at the Commencement owing to the failure to complete the technical requirements or to temporary illness. The custom has been to recognize these persons during the year when the deficiency has been made good and their record completed. During the current year the following degrees were granted as stated above:

(as of the class of 1887.)

March 7, 1906 — The following certificate in the College of Law was granted:
John L. Loughrey.

PROGRESS OF THE YEAR

Much of the progress of the University is revealed in the reports of the Deans which are submitted as a part of this report, and also in the extracts from the departmental reports submitted. At the outset attention may be called to the fact that during this year the new building for Chemistry has been practically completed and also the School of Mines building. These two buildings adequately equipped will furnish the most extensive facilities for these subjects anywhere in the Central West.

Reports from the departments of the University show in the main a satisfactory condition. Two things may be especially mentioned: First, certain departments by reason of the increased number of students are unable to do in a satisfactory manner the work desired. Second, certain other departments more recently equipped find their increased facilities of great advantage both to student and teacher. Certain of these reports are printed herewith in part, in order to call the attention of those interested in the lines of development more recently added. Reference to the reports of the Deans of the several colleges will show recent changes of interest. In the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science special attention is called to the group elective system put into operation in 1902. Inasmuch as this system here presented was first worked out at the Ohio State University, the history of the experiment will have unusual interest. The report from the College of Engineering discusses various questions and suggests certain changes and lines of development under consideration. Reference is especially directed to the joint act of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science and the College of Law in providing a combination course for students in these colleges. Reports of the College of Agriculture and College of Veterinary Medicine give an accurate account of the condition and progress of these two colleges.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The graduate work at the Ohio State University has been a matter of growth through a series of years. An interesting and instructive report from Professor George W. Knight, Chairman of the Graduate Board, is printed herewith and will be found to set forth a clear account of the work hitherto undertaken. It is earnestly hoped that in the near future the graduate work at the University may be more completely and effectively organized and given such place in the University effort as will enable it to make adequate provision for the demands made upon the University.

THE ACTION OF THE LEGISLATURE

The session of the Legislature held during the current year marks a distinct era of progress in the history of the University. In providing for the finances of the University a statute was enacted which made adequate legal provision for the development of the University. In addition to this the Legislature made the most generous appropriations ever made in the history of the State. The levy was increased from .15 to .16 of a mill. In addition to the levy the following items were provided:

For buildings for the College of Agriculture.....	$80,000 00
For live stock for the Department of Animal Husbandry..	10,000 00
For land for the College of Agriculture.....	45,000 00
For wings for a prospective Mechanical and Electrical Building	75,000 00
For equipment for the School of Mines.....	17,500 00
For equipment for the Chemical Building.....	16,000 00
For equipment for the Physics Building.....	10,000 00
For equipment for Architecture.....	5,000 00
For equipment for Civil Engineering.....	6,000 00
For a Woman's Dormitory.....	60,000 00
Total	$324,500 00

This increased provision for the University needs awakens the gratitude of every person associated with the University, and puts upon the Trustees and Faculty an obligation to meet the reasonable expectations of the State by an economic and efficient use of the money thus provided. The history of the University in its faithful management of money entrusted to it constituted the basis for this generous treatment, and the universal recognition of the obligation to use it wisely is a sufficient guaranty of further fidelity.

CONCLUSION

In concluding this report it is a pleasure to record a year of steady progress, of active co-operation, and of enlarged usefulness. The steady progress of the University is not to be credited to any one agency, but to the united and active support and co-operation of the trustees, faculty, students, and people of the State as represented both in the Legislature and in the patronage of the University. In the management of this trust the Board of Trustees has shown marked fidelity and devotion. To serve under such guidance is a distinct honor accompanied by the highest pleasure.

The reports of the Deans of the Colleges and of the Librarian, extracts from departmental reports, and several tables of statistics and itemized reports, as required by law, are herewith submitted and made a part of this report.

Very respectfully,

W. O. THOMPSON,
President.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND DOMESTIC SCIENCE

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY,
COLUMBUS, OHIO, May 2, 1906.

President W. O. THOMPSON, Ohio State University.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report for the College of Agriculture and Domestic Science for the year 1905 and 1906:

CHANGES IN FACULTY

There have been no resignations in this College during the past year, but there have been several additions and some well-earned promotions. Alfred Vivian has been promoted from Associate Professor of Agricultural Chemistry to Professor of Agricultural Chemistry; A. G. McCall from Assistant Professor of Agronomy to Associate Professor of Agronomy, in charge of the department; A. B. Graham, who has had many years' experience in the public schools of Ohio, and especially in the rural schools; has been added to the College as Superintendent of Agricultural Extension; J. A. Foord has been added to the Department of Agronomy as Associate Professor, to give special attention to the subject of Farm Crops. Professor Foord is a graduate of the New Hampshire Agricultural College, Cornell University, from which Institution also he took his Masters degree. He has spent several years in the Delaware Agricultural College, as Professor of Agriculture. John Lyman, a graduate of the Massachusetts Agricultural College has been appointed Assistant in the Department of Agricultural Chemistry, to take the place of Rudolph Hirsch, who resigned last year. W. H. Freund, a graduate of the Wisconsin Dairy School, has been appointed Instructor in Cheese Making for the winter course in Dairying.

ENROLLMENT IN COLLEGE

The total enrollment in the College this year has been 315, which is an increase of 43 over the enrollment of last year. The following statistics will show the enrollment of the College of Agriculture and Domestic Science for the past fifteen years:

The increase from an enrollment of 5 in 1892 to 182 in 1906 in the four-year courses of the College is especially gratifying. Although there has been no phenomenal growth in the enrollment of the College, there have only been three years during the fifteen in which there has been an actual decrease in the enrollment over the previous year, and during the last five years there has been an average growth of over 10 per cent. During the past year we have had students enrolled in this College from sixty-nine out of the eighty-eight counties in the state. Of the 315 students enrolled, 293 are from Ohio, 17 are from outside of Ohio, and represent nine different states, and 5 are from foreign countries. There has always been a very decided tendency for our students enrolled in the two-year courses to take the four-year courses, and a glance at the statistics of our enrollment during the past fifteen years will show that the growth of the College has been made principally through the four-year courses. There are comparatively few of our students who complete the two-years courses. The enrollment for this year by classes is as follows:

ORGANIZATION OF THE COLLEGE

Last year the Department of Agriculture was abolished and the departments of Agronomy, Animal Husbandry, Dairying, and Rural Economics created in its stead. This change in the organization has facilitated the work of the College, and, although naturally it has necessitated some adjustments the first year, as a whole it has worked to the general satisfaction of all concerned. The work of the different departments has been done with greater dispatch and responsibility and has been located to a degree that was impossible under the former organization.

In future it now seems that it will be desirable to create three new departments in the College—a department of Rural Engineering, a Department of Horticulture, and a Department of Forestry. It is also possible that if the work continues to grow as it has grown this year that it will be desirable to establish a Department of Agricultural Extension.

At present the work in Rural Engineering is included in the Department of Agronomy, the work in Horticulture and the work in Forestry in the Department of Horticulture and Forestry, and the Agricultural Extension work in the Department of Rural Economics. Such changes in organization are in line with the organization found in the best agricultural colleges, and tend to give greater opportunity for specialization and research in the different fields, and to bring the subject matter taught in the different lines into pedagogic form.

CHANGES IN ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS.

The faculty of the College has raised the entrance requirements for all four-year courses from ten units to twelve units, the same to go into effect in 1907-08. Of the students who entered the four-year courses in the College last fall upon certificates from accredited high schools, the students entering the Agricultural Course offered an average of 12 2-9 units; the students entering the Horticultural and Forestry course offered 13 units; and the students entering Domestic Science course offered 12 1-8 units. The raising of the entrance requirement for the four-year courses will not work any particular hardship, and will bring the standard of admission to collegiate courses in the College more nearly on a par to other Colleges of the University.

An important change in the subjects accepted for admission to the College was made in the addition of Elements of Agriculture to the science group, giving it a value of $\frac{1}{2}$ unit the same as given to Zoology, Physiology, and Physical Geography. This recognition of the value of the study of agriculture in the public schools will encourage the introduction of it into the curriculum of the township and village high school.

IMPROVED FACILITIES FOR STUDY.

There have been no important improvements in the facilities for study in the College during the past year. The Animal Husbandry Department has made some valuable additions to the collection of herd books—an appropriation of $350.00 having been made by the library council for this purpose. It is doubtful whether another agricultural college in America has as complete a set of live stock herd books as is now to be found in our institution.

The recent appropriation of $135,000 made by the legislature will furnish facilities for study in the addition of live stock to the equipment of the farm; in the addition of land; and in the providing of new buildings. When the contemplated improvements are made, the Animal Husbandry department will have an equipment equal to any in the country.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION.

A. B. Graham took charge of the work in Agricultural Extension on July 1st, 1905, as already mentioned. In October he began the publication of a series of Agricultural Extension bulletins. These bulletins were published monthly, in editions of 5,000, and contained 16 pages. In February a bulletin on "Centralized Schools in Ohio," was published containing 24 pages, and an edition of 10,000 copies was published. On the first of April it was found necessary to increase the bulletins to 8,000 to meet the demands of the mailing list. These bulletins have gone, principally, to the rural school teachers of the state, and have done much to arouse an interest in the teaching of agriculture in the rural schools. Already 22 of the township schools of the state have added agriculture to their courses of study.

The Agricultural Club work in the rural schools, which has been carried on by the Agricultural College for the past three years, has grown very materially and, at present, about 3,000 pupils are organized into Agricultural Clubs, and are carrying on the work under the direction of the Department of Rural Economics.

WINTER COURSE IN AGRICULTURE.

At present there seems to be an unmistakable demand throughout the state, for a course in agriculture, of shorter length than the regular collegiate year of the College. A course of ten to fourteen weeks would seem to be the most desirable. A committee from the faculty of the College has recently been appointed to take the matter under advisement and report back to the faculty the desirability of establishing such a course this coming winter. If such a course is established it will afford an opportunity for the farm boy to spend three months in the Agricultural College during the winter months when he can be spared from the farm. At the present time it is impossible for many of these boys to be away during the spring and fall months and unless some such opportunity is offered they will not have an opportunity for any education in agriculture.

Respectfully submitted,

HOMER C. PRICE,
Dean.

COLLEGE OF ARTS PHILOSOPHY AND SCIENCE

MAY 15, 1906.

To the President:

I have the honor to report on the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science for the year 1905-6, as follows:

CHANGES IN FACULTY

The work of the College has been strengthened during the past year by the addition of Assistant Professor Hubbard to the Department of Geology; Assistant Professor Duncan to the Department of English; and Assistant Professor McKenzie to the Department of Economics and Sociology. Besides these, the new appointments to positions as instructor, assistant, and Fellow, should be mentioned. In spite of these appointments, however, we are still far from the ideal condition in which no section of a recitation class shall contain more than thirty students.

ENROLLMENT

The total enrollment in this College during the last four years is shown by the figures,—528, 521, 536, 589. This increase shows a steady and substantial growth, and is satisfactory from every point of view.

THE GROUP-ELECTIVE SYSTEM

The group-elective system under which the students of this college are working went into effect in September, 1902. The leading features of this system are as follows: Besides Freshman English there are three groups of prescribed Freshman studies,—one made up of the languages other than English, two of which must be studied for at least one year each; another including mathematics and the laboratory sciences, two of which must be studied for at least one year each; and another including the general culture subjects, one of which must be studied for at least one year. The total work thus prescribed is 57 term hours, a little less than one-third of the total requirement for graduation, 180 hours. The remaining 123 hours are not free elective; for at least two of the four or five Freshman studies (any two) must be continued through the Sophomore year, at least one of the four or five Sophomore studies (any one) must be continued through the Junior year, and at least one of the three or four Junior studies (any one) must be continued through the Senior year. Thus election is limited (1) by the requirement of continued studies from year to year, (2) by the requirement that the student work in four or five departments in the first two years and in three or four departments in the last two years of his course.

The class of 1906 is the first to complete its entire course under this system, and some of the results of the system can now be ascertained with definiteness and certainty.

1. The fear that unless elections were limited in the two ways just mentioned some students would specialize prematurely while others would dissipate their efforts in too many departments is not justified by the records of the class of 1906. The extreme possibilities are shown in the following diagrams. Each numbered vertical line represents a department of study. The horizontal lines separate the years of the course. The first diagram shows the extreme possibility of specialization. By continuing three studies through the four years and working one year in each of three other departments the student confines his work to as few departments as is permissible and still fulfills the requirements for graduation.

	1	2	3	4	5
Freshman					6
Sophomore
Junior
Senior

The second diagram represents the other possible extreme:

	1	2	3	4	5
Freshmen			6	7	8
Sophomore	9	10			11
Junior		12	13	14
Senior

The second diagram represents the student who changes from department to department as often as the system permits; such a student would work two years in each of four departments and one year in each of ten departments.

An examination of the records of the eighty members of the present senior class who took their entire course at O. S. U. shows that the two permissible extremes were avoided by all and were approximated by comparatively few. The 80 records covering four full years show that —

4 students worked in 7 departments.
 13 students worked in 8 departments.
 14 students worked in 9 departments.
 21 students worked in 10 departments.
 16 students worked in 11 departments.
 8 students worked in 12 departments.
 4 students worked in 13 departments.

The average is 9 9-10 departments for each student. The following diagrams therefore better represent what the majority of the present senior class have done in the choice of studies during the four years:

	1	2	3	4	5	1	2	3	4	5
Freshman				6	7			6	7	8
Sophomore	9	8
Junior					10
Senior

I should not expect results to be very different in future classes if the two restrictions noted above were removed.

2. Concomitant with the development of the group-elective system, a marked improvement in the grade of scholarship is noted among undergraduates. The evidence of this is two-fold (1) the large number of those achieving high distinction in their work as attested by the "merit" mark; (2) the relative decrease of the number "on probation." The records of the best forty students of the present senior class show the following facts at the end of the first term of the senior year:

Greatest number term hours merited by any student of the forty...	118
Average number term hours merited by forty students.....	65
Least number term hours merited by any student of the forty....	22
<hr/>
Total number conditions and failures for forty students....	14
Total number term hour's conditions and failures for forty students	32

One student achieved the merit standing in 10 departments, one in 9, four in 8, five in 7, two in 6, four in 5.

The number of students on probation has remained about the same during the last four years, while the enrollment has greatly increased, thus indicating a relative decrease in the amount of poor work. The exact figures are as follows:

1902-3, enrollment 528, average number on probation.....	37
1903-4, enrollment 521, average number on probation.....	38
1904-5, enrollment 536, average number on probation.....	36
1905-6, enrollment 589, average number on probation.....	38

There are doubtless other causes for the improved scholarship indicated by the statistics given above than the introduction of the group-elective system. The general improvement of the high schools due to thorough inspection and careful classification is one of these causes. The requirement of entrance examinations for all applicants coming from unrecognized schools is another cause. But it is fair to award some share in the result to the workings of the group-elective system under which, within reasonable limitations, students may pursue the courses of study for which they are best fitted.

3. Wherever the elective system, or a modification of it, is introduced the question with many people as to results, centers on three subjects: Latin, Greek, and Mathematics. The result of making these subjects elective is the same at all institutions heretofore reporting specifically on this matter; namely, that Latin has about held its own; that mathematics has shown only a slight decrease; that Greek has shown a considerable decrease, but still that a goodly number continue to undertake that fine discipline. Reports from other institutions also show that, in the course of several years, these subjects having declined, have slowly tended to regain a strong following. The statistics at O. S. U. for the last four years seem to indicate that history is repeating itself here. The total enrollment for the last four years in these three subjects is as follows:

	1902-3.	1903-4.	1904-5.	1905-6.
Latin	321	306	284	273
Mathematics	259	248	261	220
Greek	176	129	68	119

There seems to be no ground for fearing that Latin, Mathematics, and Greek, in the future will fail to attract a large body of students, and they will be students who pursue these subjects not under compulsion but because they desire them and feel the need of them.

It must be remembered that the larger high schools of this state, having come to the elective system, no longer send so large a proportion of their graduates fully prepared for University work in Latin, while Greek has practically disappeared from the public secondary school curriculum.

It must be remembered also that many new departments of study have been established in American universities during the last ten or fifteen years, all of them tending to draw students away from the older curriculum, and within the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science itself, the steady increase of courses in established departments tends to increase the competition with the traditional subjects of study. The total number of courses offered in this college was 332 in 1902-3; for 1906-7 the total is 362.

On the whole, the results of the group-elective system as experienced here during the last four years must be pronounced satisfactory.

ADVISERS

In order to assist the student in forming a definite purpose in his course of study and to help him to a wise choice of studies for realizing his purpose, the Faculty of Arts, Philosophy, and Science has recently established a system of advisers. Each student upon his admission to college is assigned to some member of the teaching force as a personal adviser. The signature of the adviser is necessary when the student makes up his course for each year, after the first, and whenever he desires a change of studies during any year including the first. By this regulation, each student is provided, from the time of his admission, with a friendly counsellor, to whom he may freely resort when in perplexity about his course of study. It is not intended that the relation shall be limited to the one official visit necessary each year for the signature of class cards. The Faculty deem it much more important that each student from the first day of his connection with the college should feel that there is at least one member of the teaching force who is personally interested in helping to make his college career successful and productive of good results in every way. Not more than ten students under existing conditions need be assigned to any one adviser. The assignment has already been made for the present year.

ARTS-LAW COURSE

Arrangements have been made whereby students of exceptional ability may complete the four-year course in Arts and the three-year course in Law in six years. A few students have accomplished this in former years under the rule permitting Juniors or Seniors to elect as part of their Art's work twenty-one term hours in law. The result has been unsatisfactory in that such students were of necessity "irregular" in their law work during two years of their law course. In order to secure better results, the two Faculties have agreed on the following plan:

A student who, having been in our Arts College at least one full year, wishes to secure the Arts and Law degrees in six years may enter upon his law course after completing 135 term hours in Arts, that is, after gaining full rank as a senior in Arts. When he has fully completed the first year of his law course and 150 term hours in Arts he is recommended for the Arts degree. This does not mean that such students will be required to carry twenty hours each term during the first year of the course in law, for most of those who look forward to the combined course will be able to accumulate more than 135 hours by the beginning of the Senior year. Under existing rules, the student who enters without conditions, and who passes the work of the Freshman year without conditions, may, if he has won distinction in any line of study, be allowed to undertake from one to three extra hours. Such a student might have a total credit of 95 to 98 credit hours at the beginning of his Junior year and 145 to 150 credit hours at the beginning of his Senior year. An exceptionally strong student might even attain the possible maximum of 156 term hours at the beginning of his Senior year.

OTHER COMBINED COURSES

Experience has shown that there are a few strong students who, under existing rules, and without special arrangements have been able to complete the requirement of 180 term hours for the degree in this college and one or two years of an Engineering course during a residence of four years. This is owing to the fact that there is a considerable body of work common to the two colleges,—including English, German, French, Spanish, Mathematics, Physics, and Chemistry. As soon as the new requirements for admission to the College of Engineering go into effect, making them equal to those of this college, the chief obstacle to the adoption of a combined six-years Arts-Engineering Course will be removed. Such a course, if wisely constructed, would induce a considerable number of prospective Engineering students to make a broader preparation for their life work.

There are also a few students who at the beginning of their Senior year in Arts, having accumulated 156 credits, distribute the remaining 24 equally among the three terms of their Senior year (or reduce this amount still further by work in the Summer Term), and enroll in one of the medical colleges located in this city, carrying successfully in medical college the first year of work. They do this without great difficulty because, having planned this program long in advance, they have wisely elected with us some of the subjects coming later in the medical course and traverse these subjects the second time at a small expenditure of effort.

ELECTIVES IN OTHER COLLEGES

Before the group-elective system was introduced the student of Arts was permitted to elect during the Junior and Senior years five hours a week from any course in the University on which he was qualified to enter. With the change in system, four years ago, this privilege (amounting to thirty term hours) was restricted. The Faculty of Arts then designated certain courses in other colleges of the University which the student might freely elect. These included certain courses in the departments of drawing, electrical engineering, law, mineralogy and metallurgy, domestic economy, and single courses in land surveying and thermodynamics. Since, by means of the system of advisers, we are now undertaking to study the needs of each individual student and to provide each with a course of study especially adapted to him, the Faculty has abolished the free elective principle with reference to all work in other colleges and also to the courses announced by the new department of art. These courses may be chosen hereafter only by consent of the adviser, and the Executive Committee, as properly counting towards a degree in Arts in each individual case. This means that, when so chosen and so counted, they will be germane to the general scheme and purpose of the student's course as a whole. But after the Freshman year, these courses and any others in the University will be open to any student of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, as extra work, not counting towards a degree in Arts, provided the student is in full standing and has no entrance or college conditions to hamper his progress; and provided further, that the department concerned will admit the Arts student on these terms. The last provision is necessitated by the crowded condition of certain courses. This privilege seems to me to be very important even as thus conditioned. It enables the curious student without invalidating his course, or imperilling his standing, to try himself in unfamiliar disciplines that may have enlisted his interest.

Respectfully submitted,

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY, May 15, 1906.

DR. W. O. THOMPSON, President Ohio State University.

MY DEAR SIR:—Pursuant to your request, I submit herewith a report of the work of the College of Engineering. As this is the first occasion on which the Deans of Colleges have been asked to prepare such reports, it seems proper to give the document a somewhat wider scope than the transactions of the current year alone, in order that the recent progress of the College may be more completely set forth and a suitable basis established for the annual report of subsequent years.

GROWTH OF THE COLLEGE

The growth of the college since the formal division of the University into Colleges, as illustrated by its registration, is given in the following table which discloses the fact that the expansion has been very rapid:

1896	313
1897	288
1898	309
1899	391
1900	486
1901	580
1902	659
1903	720
1904	716
1905	776
1906	787

These numbers indicate that the College of Engineering has become a large organization in a very short time, and further that the College constitutes a considerable part of the total registration. The following table has been prepared to illustrate this point. It shows that the College of Engineering has grown at a rate commensurate with the growth of all the other departments of the University put together, as it has constituted about 40 per cent. of the total attendance for a number of years past:

Year.	Total Attendance at University.	Attendance of College of Engineering.	Percentage Engineering Students.
1896	969	313	32.3
1897	1,019	288	28.3
1898	1,005	309	30.7
1899	1,166	391	33.6
1900	1,331	486	36.5
1901	1,415	580	41.0
1902	1,603	659	41.0
1903	1,688	720	42.6
1904	1,723	716	41.6
1905	1,914	780	40.6
1906	2,014	787	39.0

The standing of the College of Engineering among other colleges of similar character elsewhere in the country, as shown in the following table, may be interesting. The College of Engineering ranks higher compared with the other engineering schools, in point of attendance than the University as a whole ranks with other Universities. These points are brought out clearly in the following table:

ATTENDANCE OF COLLEGES OF ENGINEERING FOR THE YEAR 1904-05

Massachusetts Institute of Technology.....	1,561
Cornell University	1,415
Purdue University	1,150
University of Michigan.....	993
University of Illinois.....	909
University of California.....	820
University of Wisconsin.....	804
Ohio State University.....	716
Iowa State College.....	704

A similar rapidity of growth has characterized Colleges of Engineering in general during the last 10 years; the reasons for this are more or less complex. In my judgment, there are two considerations which stand out more prominently than the others.

First. The enormous commercial expansion which has taken place in the United States since the panic of '93-96 subsided. This period of prosperity has brought the engineering and manufacturing industries into a condition of activity never before paralleled, and it has put the engineering profession of the country to a great strain to meet the demands for new transportation, new manufactures, new mines, etc. This is shown by the fact that it has been difficult in many instances to keep students in college until they could finish their course, as they are offered inducements to accept positions even after two years of engineering training, the pressure becoming greater constantly until the close of their course. Further, it has become quite usual for engineering graduates to have offers from as many as two or three firms to select from in beginning their practical experience. In fact, these conditions have not militated in favor of high standards of scholarship in engineering schools, for men with very indifferent acquirements have still been able to obtain work readily. It cannot be expected that these conditions will permanently endure, though there is reason to confidently believe that worthy and well-trained young engineers will always be able to obtain positions of some sort without undue loss of time.

Second. A second reason for this expansion of engineering education lies in the fact that manufacturers, administrators in all sorts of large industries, and men at the head of commercial concerns, are finding out that the training which young engineers are compelled to undergo leads to efficiency in other walks of life than engineering, but particularly in all matters of administration. Whatever may be said as to the cultural value of an engineering education, it seems at least to be fairly well established that it produces men who are able to adapt themselves readily to other kinds of work than engineering, and to bring to the performance of such work, a mental alertness, an accuracy of thought, and a power of concentration which forms the strongest possible guarantee for their efficiency. The fact that the studies of the engineering course are required; that there is small opportunity for the student to weaken his course by dissipating his energy among unprofitable electives; the relentless character of the drill; and the constant habit which pervades all branches of engineering training of forcing the student to start in all of his mental processes on a fixed basis of fact, which admits of proof — all these conspire to produce men who meet the concrete problems of life readily and successfully. Whether non-technical forms of education confer these same qualifications equally well is a matter open to some doubt.

You will notice that the rate of growth in the last three years is not equal to that which took place from 1899 to 1903. It may, perhaps, be worth while to set forth the reasons for this. The growth of the College has been proceeding faster than the wealth of the institution, and that has resulted in a considerable decrease in the laboratory facilities per capita. Also, while the growth in instructional force has kept pace fairly well with the increase in attendance over the institution as a whole, it has not kept up equally in all departments and some congestion has taken place.

It became apparent to the Faculty of the College of Engineering that the maintenance of the requirements for admission at the same status as in 1902 would result in an increase in attendance, with which they could not suitably cope, and that a lowering of the quality of their work must inevitably result if the attendance were allowed to grow without restriction. It seemed necessary to limit the attendance in some manner, and the most feasible method of doing this, as also the most advantageous from other reasons, was to raise the requirements for admission. These have been slowly increased as set forth in the following section:

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

The requirements for admission in the College of Engineering in 1902 were based on the same general method of computation in units, now in use, but the valuation of the unit was different. The requirements were approximately equal to 10 units of the same weighting now used. These have been successively changed to 11, 13, and recently to 15 units. This last requirement has not yet come into force, but has been adopted and published, so that in the fall of 1907 it will be in partial operation, and in 1908 in complete operation. This change in entrance requirements puts the College of Engineering on the same plane, in regard to its raw material, as the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, and upon as high a plane as the existing High School system of the state can meet. There is no likelihood that changes in High School organization and equipment will, in the near future, enable the University to make higher demands of incoming students than are now formulated. It is felt therefore, that the College of Engineering has reached a limit in this method of controlling the number of admissions to its courses.

With the increased number of units there has also been a very material tightening of the reins in the matter of construction of the rules and interpretation of admission credits under previously existing legislation. The requirements when they stood at 11 units, were not administered with a severity at all approximating the requirement of 13 units now in force. Not only have these matters been more carefully looked after as regards the regular four-year engineering courses, but also with regard to special students, elective students, applicants for the Short Courses, etc. Under this closer supervision, the proportion of special students has been materially reduced, and their acquirements before admission considerably raised. While it is not the purpose to exclude bona fide Short Course students, increasing care has been taken each year to prevent the use of these Short Courses by immature and ill-prepared students as a means of gaining admission to the University with a view to ultimately entering the four-year courses. An effort is now made to restrict Short Course applicants strictly to Short Course work. This is largely accomplished by requiring from those under 21 years of age, some practical experience in some industry of at least one year's duration.

The limit has been reached in this direction also, and when the present legislation gets into full operation, it is thought that the growth of the College can no longer be hindered by such means. It will be necessary to arbitrarily limit the attendance, taking applicants in order of their application, or else to find means to teach all that come. It is certainly to be hoped that the liberality of the state will permit offering the advantages of Engineering training to all applicants who are able to meet the scholastic requirements which the College has set down. But if teaching force and equipment cannot be had, commensurate with the growth in numbers of students, the numbers should be sacrificed, rather than the quality of the instruction.

ENTRANCE CREDIT SUBJECTS

While the requirements of admission to the College of Engineering for the year 1908 now are equal to those of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, and are substantially the same in content, there is a feeling in the Faculty of the College of Engineering that there should be some expansion in the list of entrance credit subjects. Nearly all the High Schools of the country are able to teach free-hand drawing, having both the equipment and teachers. Proficiency in this class of work is perhaps more readily acquired during high school life, than later, and in the case of engineering students, good training in free-hand drawing in the high schools would obviate the need of students taking such work in College.

Likewise, the number of high schools who are now equipped to give high grade instruction in Manual Training is large, and rapidly becoming larger. Ohio is one of the most backward states in this direction, but it is rapidly changing for the better. It seems that credit for admission to the College of Engineering might properly be given to shop-work courses where these have been well taught. A graduate of a school of manual training in applying to the University for admission, is very apt to find himself unable to come in, or at least required to bear serious entrance conditions. Yet he has had a four years' course, under good instruction, and in many respects is a better trained person than one who has had nothing but the old fashioned cultural course. In rare instances, the manual training work is added to the curriculum of the old fashioned cultural course, and the students accomplish both at once, but that is not the usual method. Our requirements for admission militate at present, against students whose preparation is in many respects more ideal than those whom we admit without question. At the same time it would seem desirable that the requirements for admission to the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, and the College of Engineering should be made identical, if possible, and it is hoped that conferences between these organizations may bring about some broadening in the list of entrance credit subjects in another year.

EXAMINATIONS VERSUS CERTIFICATES

Several years ago the Faculty of the College of Engineering requested permission of the General Faculty to adopt the examination system for admission, in whole or in part, to apply to this College only. The General Faculty withheld the desired permission, on the ground that the certificate system now had been newly given a much greater efficiency, by the appointment of an official for high school visitation. Further consideration of this matter has been held in abeyance, pending a thorough trial of the certificate system. The latter system has been strengthened recently by the creation of the Entrance Board, by which the proportion of students required to take examinations for admission has been considerably increased. Many members of the Faculty of the College of Engineering still adhere to their opinion as to the desirability of examining applicants for admission, but do not desire to press this until the two systems may be more thoroughly compared in our own institution. In this connection, there is a need for much more statistical work. At present, no one is charged with the responsibility of studying these problems, or of finding from the rolls of our own institution exactly what relation exists between the success of persons admitted by certificate compared to those admitted by examination. It is hoped that the near future may bring into the employment of the executive office assistants that may be used for such statistical studies.

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY

The Faculty of the College of Engineering has undergone no marked change during the last four years. The work in Civil Engineering in 1902 following the death of Dean C. N. Brown, was necessarily rearranged somewhat, resulting in the employment of three men in place of the two previously employed. This department has again suffered this year in the death of Prof. A. H. Heller, in whom the University lost a specialist of highest repute and a teacher of exceptional fidelity. In his place, an alumnus of the College of Engineering has been secured, Mr. C. L. Morris, who has had a fine technical experience in his specialty of bridge work, and who promises to become of great value to the institution.

The personnel of the heads of the Engineering Departments and their principal assistants remain otherwise unchanged, though there have been a number of promotions in title, and the employment of a considerable number of new men in junior positions.

CHANGES IN DEPARTMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

There are two changes which the College of Engineering has desired to make, and which it is hoped are now arranged for the coming year. The first of these is in the Department of Architecture and Drawing. This department is numerically one of the largest in the University, including as it does all work in free-hand drawing, mechanical drawing, Art work (Painting in Oils, Water-colors and Pastel), Photography, Clay Modelling, together with Descriptive Geometry, and the courses in Architecture, historical and technical. The total registration in the Department is about 1,000 per year, which will necessarily increase in the future.

The Architectural work has hitherto not been given the full emphasis to which it is entitled, as it was developed gradually as an off-shoot from the Department of Drawing. The lack of equipment for teaching Architecture has been a severe handicap. Last year this was partially remedied as to the library by an appropriation of $700.00, and this year a start has been made towards other equipment by a direct appropriation of $5,000.00 from the Legislature, which will put the work of the department upon quite a different plane. In view of this fact, the division of the work seems timely.

It will allow Prof. Bradford to devote time and energy to developing Architectural work, which he has necessarily been obliged to spend in administrative work heretofore. On the other hand, the Department of Engineering Drawing will still remain one of the large departments of the University, after taking from it the Art and Architectural features. The elevation of Prof. T. E. French to the direction of this work meets with general approval in the Faculty of the College of Engineering.

The other departmental change which we have been anxious to carry into effect, is in the work in Analytical Mechanics. Prof. J. E. Boyd has been in charge of this work for four years, but the work has been carried on under the administrative control of the Department of Mathematics. Prof. Boyd is peculiarly fitted by training and taste to take up experimental investigations in the field of Mechanics of materials, or the testing of the raw materials of engineering construction, and in the application to these materials of the methods of mathematical analysis, which the text book courses has always given.

The equipment of the University in its apparatus for testing materials of construction is meager; an improvement is urgently needed in this respect. The Department of Mechanical Engineering, though greatly overcrowded, now gives instruction in this work, which belongs more specifically in the field of analytical mechanics.

It is now proposed to combine the work in Analytical Mechanics and Strength of Materials into a new department, in which shall be included the theoretical work now given in the Department of Mathematics and the practical work in testing materials now given in the Department of Engineering.

It is further recommended that the equipment for teaching this work should be considerably enlarged at the earliest date possible. This will enable the junior year of our engineering courses to be strengthened by the introduction of laboratory work in mechanics which should extend through the year. This will secure to every engineering graduate practical familiarity with the materials of construction, and familiarity with the use of mathematics in considering them. It is hoped that Prof. J. E.

Boyd will be able to accomplish a very material improvement under this new arrangement over what has been possible under the former divided control.

In this connection, it should be said that adequate provisions for such a department will include a laboratory of considerable size, and a considerable increase in the number of testing machines, as well as some lecture room apparatus designed to illustrate the principles in class work. The work could be placed temporarily in any building where room is available, but in many respects, the new building for the Departments of Electrical and Mechanical Engineering is the most suitable for its permanent home, and it is hoped that the plans for this building will make permanent provision for the work in this department.

COURSES OF STUDY

Courses of study in the College of Engineering have undergone some considerable alteration in the last four years, but there have been no important or far reaching changes of a general nature. There are some alterations in the Courses under consideration at present, which it may be well to foreshadow at this time.

Beginning with the freshman year, it is my opinion that the Drawing course should be remodeled so as to drop or greatly reduce the amount of free-hand drawing, and at the same time to increase the amount of mechanical drawing taught in the first year. It does not seem desirable to either abolish or materially lessen the amount of free-hand drawing which students get, but rather to open the way by which this training can be obtained in the High Schools. If the desired changes in the entrance requirements can be brought to pass, this would enable engineering students to enter the University fairly well equipped in free-hand drawing, and many of them would not hesitate to accept this opportunity, if credits could be gotten on the subject towards admission. At present, since no credit is given for it, few students elect free-hand drawing. A study of the catalogues of other colleges of engineering show that most of them carry their students further in mechanical drawing in the first year than is done in this institution. Improvement in this respect would seem to be within our reach, and it is hoped that the Faculty will see their way to authorize such a change during the coming year.

In the second year of the engineering course, the subject of Physics should also be placed on a somewhat different basis for engineers. At present, part of the engineers get a three hours' course, constituted of two lectures and one quiz; others get the same with the addition of a two hours' course in physical calculations, and the Electrical and Mechanical engineers get in addition some laboratory work of an elementary nature. A very considerable proportion of the engineers get neither laboratory training nor physical problems. If the drawing of the freshmen year can be made to include some of the drawing now accomplished in the sophomore year, and the latter be reduced to an amount not exceeding two hours per week, it would then be feasible, so far as hours are concerned, to increase the amount of sophomore physics to four hours. Meanwhile, it is the consensus of opinion among the Faculty of the College of Engineering that not only the proposed extra work but also part of the time now given to lectures should be devoted to problems and laboratory drill. Such a change, in the opinion of the Faculty would result in much better realization of the fundamental principles of this fundamental subject.

These changes in the freshman and sophomore courses, and that in the third year relating to the teaching of the Mechanics of Materials should apply to all engineering courses. It is not desirable nor possible for me to suggest detailed changes in the special work of the various technical courses, but it is strongly felt that the technical instruction given should comprise none of the first year, not to exceed five hours per week in the second year, and that at least seven hours per week in the third year should be work common to all branches of engineering. This makes about 60 per cent. of the courses common to all and allows about 40 per cent. of special work to be inserted, which is as much as should be included in a four years' engineering course.

In this connection it is proper to state that the question of a five years' engineering course has been before our Faculty several times, each time with increased favor. It is not thought to be the right time, at present, to make this change, but it is greatly desired that in two years, when the immediate pressure in the department of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering for more space and more equipment can be partly met, to adopt a four years course similar to that now offered, and give for it only the Bachelor's degree, and to offer an additional year's work, which all of the abler students will be urged to take, and for which the engineer's degree will be given. It is realized by the Faculty that many of the young engineers are not able financially to spend more than four years in college without undue sacrifice. Also, that many engineers are able to obtain a bachelor's degree, whose mental limitations will prevent their ever becoming strong men in those phases of engineering which demand originality and inventive power. For such men, the present course is sufficient to enable them to become excellent routine engineers, and beyond this they should not be encouraged to go. The smaller number of abler men should be carried as far as the resources of our institution permit. This plan should not be confused with another plan, which has been before us for discussion a number of times, namely, the plan of allowing a four year student five years in which to complete his work. This is very frequently necessary in the case of students who enter with entrance conditions, or who are obliged to support themselves by work, or who fail in any of the important subjects during their course.

by which the sequence of their studies is disarranged, and the difficulty of graduation in four years immeasurably increased. Men of this class will always be found; but they, of course, would be candidates chiefly for the lower degree.

MISCELLANEOUS RECOMMENDATIONS

Manual Training. In my opinion, this course has been given a trial of sufficient duration without producing satisfactory results, to now justify its withdrawal as a course in this College. In view of the fact that teachers of Manual Training are eagerly sought by High Schools, and are able to get better wages than ordinary High School teachers, it seems apparent that the Manual Training course in our College of Engineering has either unfortunately failed to come to the attention of students who desire to become Manual Training teachers, or else what they are offered in this course as published is unsatisfactory to them. After spending some time in considering this matter, and visiting some prominent Manual Training High Schools, I have reached the conclusion that the technical portion of our course in Manual Training is excellent; that it offers in kind and amount the very training which should make a Manual Training teacher competent and effective. I think, however, that there are some omissions. The theoretical and professional side of the subject does not receive sufficient elaboration. I feel that the work is not brought before a class of students who desire to perfect themselves as Manual Training teachers; persons who do desire to become manual training teachers apparently do not think of entering an engineering school as the means of accomplishing their ends.

I recommend, therefore, that the Manual Training course be dropped from the Engineering College as soon as possible, and that a similar course be started under the control of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, or of the proposed Teachers' College where it would most naturally take root.

Industrial Arts. Regarding this four year course, I may also say that this course seems also to have failed in a large measure to justify itself. The number of graduates is very small; the number of students enrolled at no time is large or important, and the training does not seem to fit them for work materially different from that which can be gotten in Mechanical Engineering. It is my judgment, that the course should be dropped, though the subjects which are taught in it should many of them be preserved as electives for Mechanical Engineering students, and should be saved for use in the Short Course of Industrial Arts.

In my judgment, the short course has a distinct field of usefulness, and it should not be abolished or weakened. In fact, there is now before the College of Engineering, a proposition looking towards the establishment of a still shorter course for artisans, similar to those courses which are offered in the University of Wisconsin, and not dissimilar to some of the short courses given in our College of Agriculture during the winter. It is probable that another year will bring specific recommendations from the Faculty of the College of Engineering in this matter.

Engineering Chemistry. There seems to be a need for some person who has had engineering experience in applied chemistry. This need is recognized by those in charge of the department; it is felt by graduates of the department, and possibly by students now enrolled. The field of chemistry is altogether too broad to make it possible to secure any single man who will be competent over the whole range. It should be possible, however, to secure a man who has had actual experience in the manufacture of chemical productions of some sort, on a large scale, and who is familiar with the mechanical equipment by which such processes are carried out. Criticism has been made of some chemical engineering courses in this country, that they have sought to do in college work what should properly be done in the factory, and that the Factory only expects men whose training in chemistry is good, and expects to give the young graduate the necessary technical training when they take them into their employment.

This is undoubtedly true to a large extent, but it is my opinion that no one can adequately teach the application of chemistry in a manufacturing industry who has not, at some time, and in some connection, had experience with the mechanical and industrial phases of the work. It is believed that the appointment of such a person as head of the course in Chemical Engineering, with sufficient time to bring himself in contact with the chemical industries of the state, and to form close personal relations with the firms now located in Ohio, would strengthen the University greatly in its hold on the industrial growth of the state, and provide an avenue by which an increased number of our engineering graduates could find their way to positions of prominence.

Our course in Chemical Engineering has been very greatly improved in the last few years by the incorporation of a considerable amount of solid engineering training into it. With the addition of the change above recommended, it will become one of the strong courses of the College. Work for the proposed new man could take the place of the work now given in the Departments of Metallurgy and Ceramics. These fields being closely related to Chemical Engineering, it does not seem proper that a student should be allowed to take work in them, looking towards the Chemical Engineering degree, as in that case he does not represent the best product of any of the departments concerned.

Electro Chemistry. This field of the industrial manufacture has assumed a very great importance in the last decade, and many of the strong engineering Colleges are offering courses in it. It would seem that the College of Engineering should take steps in the near future to enter this field of instruction.

Gas Engineering. This field also is inviting attention from enginengineering schools. The gradual falling off of the supply of natural gas and oil, the increased cost of coal, and almost complete withdrawal of wood as a commercial fuel, makes the production and economic utilization of fuel gases highly important, to take the place of other forms of fuel now passing out of use. Fine instruction in the same is now offered by Prof. N. W. Lord, but is only a small feature of the course in mine engineering. In the same connection, the recent development of the gas engines as a source of power, and the tremendous expansion of this form of motor in numerous branches of manufacture, makes it seem desirable that the utilization of gas fuels, as well as the production of them, should be specialized in the same course. In this field of utilization, Prof. W. T. Magruder is one of the experts of the country. It would seem, therefore, that the College of Engineering is in an exceptionally favorable position to organize and carry out a course in gas engineering, which would be second to none in the country.

Elementary Law. A few years ago an effort was made to have students in Civil Engineering receive a course in the fundamentals of law, especially in the law of contracts. The teaching was provided by the Faculty of the College of Law, but the results were not satisfactory to either College. The teachers of the College of Law, being employed as specialists, and chiefly for a short period per day only, could not arrange convenient schedules; also, the Law courses require the payment of heavier fees by the Engineering students than are usual in this College. The course was abandoned after one year's trial, not because it was not desired, but because of the difficulties of administration. In my opinion, this work is essential to the broad and proper training of Engineers, or in fact, the broad and proper training of any educated man.

I recommend that an arrangement be made, by which a suitable person will give instruction in elementary law to the students of the College of Engineering, either in connection with or apart from the Faculty of the College of Law, as may be found most convenient. This work should not amount to more than three hours per week for one term, but should be offered in all engineering courses. For convenience in teaching, the work might be repeated in either two or three terms, rather than to repeat the subject several times per day for one term. The large number of graduates of the Law School residing in this city should make it easily possible to secure a man amply able to give this work.

Lecture Courses. A proposition has been repeatedly recommended by the Faculty of the College of Engineering that Courses of Lectures from eminent engineers should be made a part of the training of our courses of instruction. This plan has given general approval in other Colleges, the more advanced of which are offering such training. The advantage to the student in seeing and hearing eminent engineers is obvious, and it is not necessarily an expensive innovation, as many of these persons are glad to lecture on their specialties, gratuitously, or for a small fee, if their convenience as to time can be consulted. It is hoped that this may be put in force in another year.

ADDITIONS TO THE EQUIPMENT

The four years, 1902-1906, have been most important ones in the College of Engineering, in the matter of improvement of material resources. During this time the following large additions have been made:

Civil Engineering and Architecture. In 1902, appropriations were made for $80,000.00 for a building for these departments, which up to that time were being accommodated in Hayes Hall under most discouraging circumstances; $80,000.00 has supplied a convenient, commodious building to which all of the old equipment was moved, and to which some $10,000.00 of new equipment has already gone. In addition to this, $6,000.00 of new equipment for Civil Engineering, and $5,000.00 of new equipment for Architecture are now available, which will do a great deal towards bringing the efficiency of this work up to the mark. Additional floor space will soon become in demand in this building.

Chemistry. The burning of the Chemistry building in 1904 has resulted in a new building costing $100,000.00, with $26,000.00 worth of apparatus and equipment. There was, however, very little old equipment left to bring forward. The resources of this building cannot probably be said to be largely devoted to engineering, as the Department of Pharmacy is given a considerable part of the space, and Chemistry is largely elected by students of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, and is required of the students of the College of Agriculture. Nevertheless, about one-half of the work of the Chemical Department is done for the College of Engineering, so that the new equipment may, therefore, be considered as a very material addition to our resources.

Physics. A building costing $80,000.00 was authorized in 1902. It was slow in construction, but is now equipped with $20,000.00 worth of new apparatus, together with the apparatus owned by the department previous to its change of quarters. Of this equipment, the large bulk is employed in teaching the engineering courses.

School of Mines. The burning of the Chemical building in 1904 also threw the Departments of Metallurgy and Mining out of their quarters, with a nearly complete destruction of their equipment. In response to their needs, a building was provided at an expense of $85,000.00, and equipment to the extent of $22,500.00, the latter portion of which is now being installed. The building will accommodate the Departments of Metallurgy, Mining and Ceramics, and will assemble under one roof a more complete and more adequate equipment for instruction in the mineral industries as a whole, than is offered elsewhere in the United States. A number of other schools are superior to our own in the equipment of Metallurgy or Mining, but in no other school of Mines is the equipment for Mining and Metallurgy supplemented by special provision for teaching the non-Metallurgical branches of the mineral industry. Similarly, it may be said that of the other schools which are established or are being established to teach the technology of the Silicate industries, none have the good fortune to be associated with strong mining schools.

Mechanical and Electrical Engineering. These two departments are still occupying the first structures which were built for each respectively, and their equipment and floor space are entirely inadequate to do the work which they are called upon to do, or to place the proper emphasis on the higher important branches of engineering work. The prominence of Ohio in both of these lines, compares illy with the provision here available for teaching the subject. That the equipment is in such a backward state, is due to a combination of circumstances. It is in a fair way to be remedied, however, since the Legislature has already provided $75,000.00 for a beginning towards the re-equipment and re-appointment of these departments. This amount is about one-third of what is now needed, but it is confidently believed that this appropriation will lead to the appropriation of the remaining sum two years from now.

Meanwhile, great relief will be experienced in some parts of the work from the present appropriation, though not much can be effected prior to the fall of 1907.

In conclusion, we may say that these additions to the respective fields of Physics, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Architecture, Mining, Metallurgy, Ceramics, Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, all operate to place our College on a plane entirely different from that occupied in 1902. The change has been greater in both buildings and teaching force than in equipment, and at present this represents the most general handicap from which we are suffering. Nevertheless, these new resources have placed a new responsibility upon us, and to this duty, the Faculty of the College of Engineering are addressing themselves in deepest earnest.

I wish to say that the Faculty as a body is most loyal and devoted to the Engineering profession, and that personally, each is an enthusiast in his special field. They are men of kindly impulses, high purposes and are animated by the sincere desire to do what is best for all. Unselfish co-operation to a high degree has characterized the work of the College through these momentous four years, and this spirit, if continued, will lead to still higher achievements in the future.

Very respectfully submitted,

EDWARD ORTON, JR.

COLLEGE OF LAW

REPORT OF JOSEPH H. OUTHWAITE, DEAN, FOR THE YEAR 1905-1906

To the President of the Ohio State University.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report on the condition of the College of Law for the year 1905-1906. During this year, by the action of the Faculty of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science and the Faculty of this College, there has been adopted a combined course of these two colleges—to take effect at the beginning of the year 1906-1907—which is as follows:

“A candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts while registered in the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science may also register in the College of Law as a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Laws, provided, that at the time of seeking such registration in the College of Law (1) he has 135 term hours to his credit in the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, including the requisite optional subjects, and exclusive of the credit hours in Military Drill and Physical Training, and (2) has been a student in the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science of this University at least one year, and (3) has included (or with the further work in the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science mentioned in the next paragraph shall complete) sufficient courses to amount to thirty term hours in one or more of the four subjects: American History, European History, Economics, Political Science, exclusive of elementary courses in those subjects.

A student so registered in the two colleges must during his first year of double registration complete sufficient further work in the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science to make his credits in that college aggregate 150 term hours, exclusive of the credit hours in Military Drill and Physical Training. When he has done this and has completed in the College of Law the first year of the course for the degree of Bachelor of Laws, he will be recommended for the degree of Bachelor of Arts; and when he has completed the second and third years of such course in the College of Law, he will be recommended for the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Application to enter the combined course must be filed with the Dean of the Arts College before registration day at the beginning of the year in which the student is eligible to enter the combined work.”

Prior to this year Elementary Law occupied fifteen hours a week during the first semester, and the subjects of Personal Property, Domestic Relations and Status were included therein. But these changes have been made — Elementary Law occupies eight hours a week to November 1st, and five hours a week to the end of the semester; Domestic Relations occupies three hours a week for the first semester; and Personal Property and Elementary Real Property two hours a week each in the second semester. Contracts begins November 1st and continues for two hours per week until the end of the semester, and four hours a week during the second semester. Torts begins November 1st and continues for two hours a week to the end of the first semester, and three hours a week during the second semester. In the second year Real Property has been changed from a four hours course in the second semester to a course of two hours a week throughout the year, and concluding with a new course on Mortgages and Liens for two hours a week during the first semester of the third year. The last named subject was given by the Dean, and the course on Circuit and Supreme Court Practice of two hours a week for the first half of the second semester was given by Judge Shauck.

In October, 1905, Professor E. B. Kinkead's work on Jurisprudence, Law and Ethics was published, and it was used by me as the text book in the class in Legal Ethics during the second semester.

The providing of a debating coach for the University was appreciated by the students of this College, as was shown by the very creditable record their representatives made in the State University League contests.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH H. OUTHWAITE,

Dean.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

MAY 14, 1906.

DR. W. O. THOMPSON, Executive Office, O. S. U.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:—Complying with your request I herewith have the honor to submit the following report of the work accomplished in the College of Veterinary Medicine, Ohio State University.

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY

While there has been no change since 1900 in the number of veterinarians giving instruction in the technical branches pertaining directly to Veterinary Medicine, the caliber of the Veterinarians comprising part of the faculty has been greatly enhanced by the substitution of better prepared teachers for those who were retired or resigned. Probably the most notable substitution of this sort was the acquisition of Professor Sisson to the Chair of Comparative Anatomy, in which branch he stands pre-eminent. During the past year he has been absent abroad taking work along his chosen line at the University of Berlin and at other institutions of learning in Dresden and at Zurich, Switzerland. With his capacity for work and his knowledge of the German language he will have profited greatly by his foreign study in which, on his return, not only the College of Veterinary Medicine but the whole University will share. Associate Professor Udall, although at first handicapped by lack of teaching experience, is proving a valuable man in the College. He is an indefatigable worker and a devoted disciple to duty, leaving no stone unturned to better fit himself to fill his position. By the translation, just completed, of a German work on surgery he has made more available a valuable contribution to medical literature as well as a long needed text book for student use. With Dr. Brumley he conducts the daily clinic where hundreds of diseased and injured animals are treated annually. Dr. Brumley grew up with the University and maintains his status as a good and popular teacher.

Dr. Phillips is a most inspiring instructor and although handicapped by lack of assistants, material, and proper laboratory facilities, has been able to more than hold his own not only as a teacher but as an investigator of pathological problems. Dr. Fitzgerald, who is substituting for Dr. Sisson during his absence on leave, although just fresh from the student ranks, will acquit himself with a reputation for faithful, accurate work enjoyed by few teachers of so small experience. Besides carrying the work of Anatomy, a heavy schedule, he has been able to find time for pathological research and has mastered the German language sufficiently to avail himself of the standard Veterinary Literature.

FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT

The most notable additions to the equipment of the College have been the Surgical Operating Table and Restraining Stocks at the Veterinary Hospital. Both of these mechanisms are up to date, and permit of confining the larger patients during operations without danger to the operator or to the animal. This makes possible a grade of surgical interference in conformity with the most modern methods of minor and major surgery. Both of these means of restraint practically do away with the dangers of the old casting mattress and hobbles, which, in more than one instance in the past, brought injury to the operator and occasionally death from incurable bone fractures to the patient. The patrons of the Clinic have already shown their appreciation of these advantages and are bringing and sending a greater number of cases for treatment than ever before. This is not only of decided advantage to the student learning to apply his theoretical knowledge, but also to the department partially supported by the income derived from fees received from the owners of the animals treated.

ENROLLMENT

The number of students in the College has been gradually growing for the past five years. During the academic years,

1900-01 there were	27	students matriculated.
1901-02 there were	28	students matriculated.
1902-03 there were	69	students matriculated.
1903-04 there were	92	students matriculated.
1904-05 there were	87	students matriculated.
1905-06 there were	115	students matriculated.

The above figures do not include students from other courses of the University, i. e., students in Dairying and Agriculture having required work in this College. They show a constant growth of the Department which has quadrupled in numbers in the past five years.

CHANGE IN ORGANIZATION

Unfortunately, as yet, the authorities do not appreciate the importance of sub-dividing the College of Veterinary Medicine into appropriate departments. However, in time I feel that the necessity will arise for creating four independent departments out of the present one department of Veterinary Medicine. This will greatly facilitate the progress of the College as it has so operated in the College of Agriculture.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS AND COURSE OF STUDY

In the past five years there have been no important changes in entrance requirements or course of study. With the exception of the New York Schools and possibly Iowa State College, the requirements for admission to this College are higher than in any other of the remaining eleven Veterinary Schools in the United States and Canada. At present we are more than complying with the requirements of the American Veterinary Medical Association, and as long as we obtain a good class of students capable of carrying the work of the course with credit there will be no demand for such change. The experience in New York State, which requires 48 Regents counts for matriculation in the Veterinary School, placing this infantile profession on a par in this regard with law, theology, and medicine, has led to an enormous falling off in attendance. The total number of freshmen matriculating in Veterinary Medicine at Cornell in 1904, when but 24 counts were required, was 50; in 1905, with 48 counts but 12 were matriculated. The same holds true in the only other Veterinary College in that State, the New York American Veterinary College now affiliated with the New York University.

PUBLICATIONS

While facilities and lack of assistants make original research secondary to routine teaching in this College, nevertheless the veterinary members of the Faculty have done something in the past three years toward the publication of interesting clinical cases and have either translated and edited or written some text books of apparent value, judged from the reception they receive from other institutions. The following books have already appeared:

(1) Malkmus' Physical Diagnosis, translated from the German by Drs. White and Fischer.

(2) Froehner's General Surgery, translated from the German by Dr. Udall.

(3) A Compendium of Posology and Prescription Writing by Dr. Brumley.

(4) A Comparative Anatomy of the Domesticated Animals by Dr. Sisson is in preparation.

(5) A Compendium of Veterinary Ophthalmology by Dr. White is in preparation.

(6) A Translation of Ellenberger & Baum's "Anatomic der Tiere für Künstler" by Dr. Sisson.

OUTSIDE EDUCATIONAL WORK

During the past winter the Dean of the College has given a course of bi-weekly lectures to the Horse Shoers of the City. These lectures were attended by from 50 to 75 members of the horse shoeing craft, some of them coming from neighboring towns to attend. Apparently great interest was manifested in this primitive form of University Extension work, and it is believed that profit was derived from it.

FAILURES ON THE PART OF STUDENTS

Compared with other Colleges of the University there are, perhaps, fewer failures among the Veterinary students than in other courses. I think this is generally true of strictly technical students who come here not so much for mental discipline per se, as for professional training. Generally speaking, the students in this College are greatly interested in their work, and demand only that they be kept busy. Most of them know what they want and appreciate it when they get it. Those who do fail are either too poorly prepared to take the course, or become the victims of bad associations to the neglect of their college work.

MISCELLANEOUS SUGGESTIONS

The future progress of the College of Veterinary Medicine will depend not so much upon the number of its students as upon the quality of its teaching. While some progress has been made in this regard the future will demand the following briefly mentioned suggestions:

(1) The erection of a suitable clinical building to contain the Hospital and Pathological Departments.

(2) A division of the Department of Veterinary Medicine into four distinct departments.

(3) Additional assistance and assistants in each of the departments.

(4) Providing the Museum material with proper jars and cases.

(5) Greater encouragement to do original research work along lines which will benefit the students, the University, and the State.

Very respectfully submitted,

DAVID S. WHITE,
Dean.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

G. W. KNIGHT, Chairman.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

To the President.

SIR:— I have the honor as Chairman of the Administrative Board to submit the following report of the Graduate School.

ORGANIZATION OF THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Prior to 1900 little attempt at systematic provision for graduate study was made at the University. Occasionally a graduate of some Ohio college undertook graduate study here in lines impossible at his Alma Mater, and a few of our own graduates each year returned for an additional year's work, in the main consisting of electives which they had been unable to include in their undergraduate course. In nature and character this graduate curriculum differed little from higher undergraduate work, and was in effect a fifth year of college work, which if successfully accomplished was crowned with the Master's degree. Until within ten years the equipment and facilities of the University were not in general adequate to high grade research either in science or in the humanities, nor did the duties of the instructional force permit to many of them any time to carry the burden of graduate instruction.

The rapid enlargement of facilities and equipment immediately prior to 1900, the demand urged by the other colleges in the State that this University should afford opportunity for advanced study and research to their graduates, and their practically unanimous opinion that this was a proper and imperative duty of the University, culminated in the year 1902 in the organization of the Graduate School of the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science.

The facilities and equipment of the University were by that time sufficient to warrant the undertaking, and many of the departments of instruction were in a position to direct and supervise research beyond the undergraduate courses. But the higher work of the various departments needed co-ordinating and correlating in order to make the opportunities of the University in the highest degree useful to graduate students. The purpose in creating the Graduate School was to effect this co-ordination, to emphasize and utilize to the fullest practicable extent the facilities of the University and to secure an effective and systematic arrangement and supervision of the higher work.

As there was no mandate of law requiring graduate instruction here, and as it was not certain how far the State would support this highest form of higher education, no separate College with a special faculty devoting its time wholly or principally to graduate instruction was organized, but within the College of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, where the natural demand for post-baccalaureate work principally fell, provision was made for the Graduate School, the administration of which was vested in a Board of five members selected from the Arts Faculty, to be known as the Administrative Board, while the legislative power as to terms and conditions under which graduate work might be carried and higher degrees earned was retained by the Faculty of the Arts College, as in other affairs of the College.

Unlike the curriculum for undergraduates, the work of candidates for higher degrees is not confined to specific courses of instruction regularly offered in the College. Each student chooses a major subject and one or two minor subjects, which must be approved by the Administrative Board before he enters upon his work. The work may consist of attendance upon specified courses or of private research in a special field and report thereon. The professors in charge of the studies chosen constitute a special committee to arrange the details, to supervise the work of the student, to examine and pass judgment on the thesis, and upon the completion of the prescribed course to conduct a final examination upon the entire work undertaken for the degree.

While the nature and amount of the work required of the graduate student is thus subject to variation in different cases, in general the Administrative Board has insisted that it shall be the equivalent each year of what, if measured by credit hours, would be from fifteen to eighteen stiff credit hours for the year. It is the judgment of the Board that the latter rather than the former represents most nearly what the students in the School are called on to do.

The general scheme of the graduate course, together with the pre-requisites and the character and length of the work necessary for a degree, is similar to that of the best graduate schools of the country. Two higher degrees are offered, Master of Arts, requiring at least one year's residence at work under the above scheme, concentrated upon not more than three subjects, and Doctor of Philosophy, requiring resident specialized work in one principal and one or two subordinate fields for a period of not less than three years, the first two of which may, however, be spent at another University offering equivalent graduate opportunities. On this last point it may be proper to state the Administrative Board is firmly convinced that such reasonable migration from one university to another is highly desirable and advantageous to the student. Especially do we feel that all students working for the Doctor's degree should pursue some portion of their graduate course at another institution than that from which they have received their Bachelor's degree. Breadth of view and soundness and depth of scholarship are certain to be increased thereby.

ENROLLMENT

The enrollment in the Graduate School for the current year is 39, representing sixteen different colleges and universities, of which eight are Ohio institutions and eight are in other States. Of these students all but nine are working for a higher degree, though several are doing only partial work and hence will not come up for the degree in the minimum time permitted. In addition to this number should be reckoned several students who are pursuing systematic graduate study in the summer term, either at the University or at the Lake Laboratory at Sandusky, and who will in due time come up for a higher degree.

While the enrollment in the Graduate School is as yet modest in size, two facts are noteworthy—the large and increasing number of students who hold their first degree from other institutions, and the unusually large proportion of those who are in full candidacy for a higher degree. In both these regards the present year has shown a marked advance over previous years, and is beyond question the result of the systematic organization of the graduate facilities of the University.

PRESENT GRADUATE FACILITIES

The facilities offered by the School for advanced study and investigation naturally vary in the different fields represented. In all branches of science, dependent as they must be upon ample laboratory equipment, apparatus, and appliances, the University is equalled by none other in the State and by few in the West. For work in theoretical, experimental, and applied science (so far as the latter may properly enter into non-technical graduate study) there is good provision for many varied lines of investigation. In literature, history, economics, sociology and political science, dependent largely upon library resources and material for advanced work, the equipment of the University, to which may be added as available for our students, the State library at the State House, is better than that afforded at any other institution in Ohio, but must be largely increased in the near future if the Graduate School is to win and maintain its proper place among the Graduate Schools of the West. In the foreign languages, ancient and modern the facilities have been appreciably enlarged in the past five years.

FELLOWSHIPS

The system of fellowships established at the University has already stimulated the spirit of research and investigation, and has brought to us a considerable number of unusually strong graduate students. The condition attached to the fellowships, that their holders shall be liable for a limited amount of service to the University, in the form of laboratory and other similar assistance in the department in which they hold their fellowships, has proved of great value to the University, and in most instances has been directly helpful to the fellow himself in the application of his advanced knowledge. The Administrative Board is, however, strongly of the opinion that save in rare instances fellows should not be placed in charge of classes or be permitted to give class instruction. They should be "assisting" and not "teaching" fellows. The holders of fellowships are in general the highest type of graduate students, and should be a stimulus to other graduate students as well as to undergraduates. I may be permitted to express the hope that the system will be extended until every department in which there is a call for advanced work will have at least one fellowship. What the Ohio State University most needs in the scholastic sense at the present stage of its growth is an increase of the spirit of research not only among the graduate students but also among the undergraduates. The presence here of an increasing body of fellows will be one of the greatest forces in bringing this about.

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

The action of the General Assembly of Ohio at its recent session is of the highest importance in its bearing on the status and future of the Graduate School. The University is now by formal law not only authorized but seemingly required to maintain and develop its graduate instruction. The opportunity for enlarged usefulness in a portion of the educational field where the University can better serve the State than can any other educational institution within its borders is clearly open. On account of this wide opportunity and the increased duty laid upon us, important problems are presented in reference to which certain points seem clear.

INCREASE OF FACILITIES

Graduate study is almost invariably concentrated, intensive, highly specialized study and research within a limited field. Often the student's work is purely individual research in a line hitherto not fully marked out, and for which ordinary books and apparatus are not sufficient.

The proper development then of graduate instruction and opportunities for research is conditioned upon the provision of equipment primarily or principally adapted to specialized work. For this in science lines, special apparatus and appliances are often necessary, and in the humanities, books and documents of a class and character not so essential in less advanced study. In these regards, though a good beginning has already been made here, there are few departments whose equipment is entirely adequate to the undertaking of the best advanced work. Larger provision for library is imperative, both in the way of books and documents and in library room for their use. This seems fundamental as a condition to the best success of the Graduate School, and I may be permitted to express the hope that we may soon pass the total of 100,000 volumes, fairly distributed among the departments, which in the general opinion will fully warrant without reservation offers of graduate work in all lines.

SPECIAL GRADUATE INSTRUCTORS

Provisions should be made in the near future whereby in at least some of the departments of the University one or more of the instructional force shall be enabled to devote the whole or a considerable part of their time to graduate instruction. At present no such definite provision is made, and the heads of departments or other senior instructors are forced to add the burden of graduate instruction and supervision to the already heavy load of undergraduate instruction, with no corresponding diminution in the latter. If the advanced graduate work is to be established on its proper permanent footing, it must have the same kind of recognition in provisions for instruction that is accorded to undergraduate work.

GRADUATE AND UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

Consequent upon this, though in part a distinctly different point, must come a sharper differentiation between graduate courses and advanced undergraduate courses in the various schemes of departmental work offered. The purpose and the point of view of the graduate student are in most cases different from those of the undergraduate — even the advanced undergraduate — and it does not often happen that any given course can be so handled as best to serve both kinds of students in the same treatment and by the same methods. It is apt either to go over the heads of the one kind, or to be too slightly intensive for the other.

GRADUATE WORK IN THE SUMMER TIME

Since the definite establishment of a summer term at the University the Administrative Board of the Graduate School has been in constant receipt of inquiries for graduate instruction during that term in several lines of work. For most of these it has been practicable to arrange with the heads of summer term departments, but it is already evident that a large number of college graduates who are engaged in teaching during the school year are seeking, and will look to this University to afford the opportunity for, advanced study during the summer, for which they have hitherto gone elsewhere. A better and more definite organization of the graduate work during the summer term seems desirable. The relationship of the Graduate School to the Summer Term Board should be so adjusted as to develop the opportunities in this direction and enable a more definite program to be announced for those who will naturally seek the University during the summer months.

In this connection it would seem both feasible and highly desirable that an arrangement be authorized whereby graduate students who work here in the summer term may, where the nature of their research will permit, and the department in charge approves, be given opportunity to continue their work here after the close of the formal summer term, in cases where arrangement for proper supervision can be made by them with the department concerned; and that the time thus spent here shall be taken into the reckoning of residence required under the regulations for degrees. The brevity of our Summer term makes some such plan desirable, and properly guarded it would certainly be helpful to students and to the Graduate School.

THE FUTURE ORGANIZATION OF GRADUATE WORK

While the present organization of the Graduate School seems to provide all necessary correlation and administration of the graduate work in the departments of the Arts College, there is a growing demand and a wide opportunity for similar work in two or three of the other colleges of the University. Ultimately there must grow up a separate graduate school in each of those colleges, or a single graduate college of the University embracing within its jurisdiction all graduate work offered at the University. Such a college would naturally be organized as are the other colleges of the University and be immediately responsible to the University Faculty. Which plan shall be adopted is largely a question of policy. It would seem that this question should receive early consideration in order that the growth of the University on the side of graduate work may not be checked for lack of permanent plan and policy.

Respectfully submitted,

G. W. KNIGHT,
Chairman of the Administrative Board.

EXTRACTS FROM DEPARTMENTAL REPORTS.

DEPARTMENT OF ANIMAL HUSBANDRY.

The Department of Animal Husbandry came into existence July 1, 1905. Previous to this date the animal husbandry instruction and work had been a part of the Department of Agriculture.

My connection with the University began with July 1, 1902. The years 1902-03 and 1903-04 all the animal husbandry instruction was given by me alone. The classes steadily grew, and in 1904-05 I was provided with an Assistant, at a salary of $750 a year, in the person of Mr. H. S. Arkell of Canada, who gave acceptable service. He resigned in March, and Dr. C. W. Gay was secured as his successor, beginning work here in the spring term as Assistant Professor of Animal Husbandry, at $1,200 a year — the salary given him for a similar position at the Iowa Agricultural College.

During the year 1905-06 the Department has had three men working with classes: myself, Dr. Gay and Mr. W. H. Palmer who was given a Fellowship for the year.

The attendance in classes has steadily increased and during the winter term there were seven classes including about 165 students.

In a revision of the course of instruction in this Department, the next year will see 19 different classes of required and elective work, some of which subjects are not taught elsewhere — notably, Live Stock Markets and Commerce, and Wools and Animal Fibers.

At the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago last December, six students in Animal Husbandry from this University in competition with students from six other Agricultural Colleges, attained first rank in judging horses and cattle, and, for general proficiency, stood second only to the Ontario Agricultural College and this by only a few points. The Ohio students won for 1906 the valuable Union Stock Yards bronze trophy of a horse for superior excellence in judging horses. Of the 35 students in the horse contest, Mr. J. A. Main of O. S. U. held first rank.

This Department also made an exhibit of horses, cattle and swine at the International, winning nearly $500 in prize money, and showing with much success, securing grand championship over all breeds, grades and crosses on pen of swine.

The participation of the University in this great International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago created much interest and enthusiasm among the students of the College of Agriculture and among the leading stockmen of the state.

During the year the equipment of the Department has grown in value, especially in stock. Two thousand dollars were appropriated by the Board for buying live stock during 1905-06. The last legislature also appropriated $10,000 for this same purpose. This will add greatly to the value of our instructional equipment. It is proposed to purchase pure bred specimens of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, and some feeders of showing merit. From this fund there has already been bought a pair of Clydesdale and Hackney mares, two grade draft horses, four Holstein Friesian and three Shorthorn cattle, several steers, one Poland China sow, one Berkshire boar, one Shropshire ram and four Cotswold ewes.

The appropriation of $80,000 by the last legislature for a horse and cattle barn and live stock pavilion will give the University an unexcelled beginning towards the creation of a superior equipment of buildings for this Department.

For two years no provision has been allowed by the Trustees for equipment, the Produce fund paying for what material is purchased. The expenses of the Department are necessarily growing, and the Trustees should provide special appropriation for meeting these needs.

Respectfully submitted,

C. S. PLUMB,
Professor of Animal Husbandry.

DEPARTMENT OF CIVIL ENGINEERING

1. Improvements in Equipment: During the year a machine for testing beams has been added to the cement testing laboratory. This has proved to be a valuable addition and enables the department to carry on tests of concrete, plain and re-inforced, on a commercially valuable scale.

A laboratory for testing the road building materials of the State is in process of fitting up, and will shortly be completely equipped for this useful work, which will be carried on in co-operation with the State Department of Highways.

The department's collection of drawings has been notably increased during the year, the most important of which have been the standard plans of the New York Central & Hudson River Ry. These drawings, three hundred and fifty in number, were presented to the Department, substantially bound, by Mr. W. H. Wilgus, Vice-President of the Company. The Standard Specifications of the Road neatly bound and indexed were also presented by Mr. Wilgus at the same time.

2. Publications: Prof. A. H. Heller printed his "Stresses in Structures and the Accompanying Deformations." This was not formally published because not completed, but in its printed form it has been in use as a text book in the departments of Mathematics and of Civil Engineering during the year. Professor Heller had, before his death, written the three remaining chapters necessary to complete the book, and this will be gotten out by Mr. C. T. Morris, of the Department, during the coming summer. A copy of the book is sent herewith. It will show the painstaking care with which Professor Heller did all his work.

3. Other Work: It may be of some public interest to mention that the head of the Department has during the year acted as representative of the Governor of Ohio in inspecting the work of the U. S. Geological Survey in making a topographic map of the State.

Of interest to the student of university education, possibly, may be noted the work of the instructors in providing and supplementing the books used by the students. Mimeographed notes have heretofore been used but have been found to be in some respects unsatisfactory. Steps have been taken to furnish, the coming year, supplementary printed chapters after the plan of the Instruction Papers of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, Penna. For such undergraduate subjects as are best presented by texts, this seems to offer a satisfactory solution for imperfect text books.

4. Failures: Statistics of the Department for the past thirteen years (given on accompanying sheet) show that the percentage of failures now is no greater than formerly. Why so great formerly? Because the standards were high. A fact which tends to show this is that from 1892 to 1895 inclusive the Civil Engineering Department of Ohio State University ranked first of all the colleges in the United States and Canada in a thesis contest conducted by the then leading engineering paper of this country as shown by the following table:

Engineering News Thesis Contest

*Tied for second place.

Ohio State University has never advertised this fact, although Thayer School which took second place, and which is really a post-graduate school, mentioned it in its catalogue for several years.

Many attempt the course in Civil Engineering who are manifestly unfitted for the profession. A number fail because they are too immature, or lack sufficient preparation. Some fail because they have acquired bad mental habits before they come to college. This latter charge can doubtless be justly laid at the doors of some high schools of the State, but I should hesitate to apply it very broadly because I am dubious about some phases of our own required engineering courses, not to mention some doubts as to my ability to draw our own students on their best endeavors. I am not in accord with the present scheme of enforced final examinations for all. Better results would be obtained under the former scheme used in our Department, I believe, although the percentage of failures would probably not be materially reduced by reverting to the previous plan.

The Department has virtually conducted an employment bureau in conjunction with the work of instruction. During the past year written requests were received for seventy graduates and students, many of whom were wanted for responsible positions. Last summer every student in the Department was engaged in practical engineering work, and the demand is so great this year that the best record of previous years may be equalled or surpassed.

C. E. SHERMAN.

DEPARTMENT OF ASTRONOMY

The work on motion of stars in the line of sight has been completed and the results published, a copy of which paper was sent you at the time. Mention of this paper was made in the annual report of the Council of the Royal Astronomical Society upon the progress of astronomy during the past year. The report of my observations of the eclipse of 1900 has at last been published in full and is to be found in the Publications of the U. S. Naval Observatory, Second Series, Vol. IV, Appendix I.

Work upon the new spectroscope has progressed fairly well until about three weeks ago when it stopped until it can be ascertained what funds will be available for its completion. The optical theory has been carefully investigated and a complete mathematical discussion on the effect of flexure of the frame has been worked out. The 4" grating and prism are here.

Regular observations for time have been made by Mr. Maag and the usual weather observations have been taken by Mr. Martin. These weather observations are published monthly by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Outside of the grating and prism above mentioned no new equipment has been added this year as there were no funds available.

Bulletins and publications have been regularly received from the Harvard, Yerkes, Allegheny, Lick, Lowell, Mt. Wilson Solar, and U. S. Naval Observatories, and I take great pleasure in hereby expressing the thanks of this observatory to the above institutions.

Public nights are still utilized by the public, the attendance being between fifteen and twenty on the average.

Much of the Director's time is taken up with repairing and building apparatus. This is a condition of affairs that is very unfortunate. Time thus spent is lost to the higher side of scientific investigation. This fact is only justified by two conditions. First that it is impossible to do original work along the line of the physical sciences with "stock" apparatus, a large part of the investigation often lies in the design of the instrument. Second, this University possesses no instrument shop and it is frequently imperative that a large part of the apparatus be made or fitted on the grounds. Further the delay in sending away is frequently greater than the loss of time due to the Director spending his time in a machine shop. It is to be hoped that in the near future the University will see its way to remedy this defect.

Very respectfully,

H. C. LORD.

DEPARTMENT OF CERAMICS

Changes in Equipment and Facilities for Teaching

The Ceramic Department has received during the current year, in common with the Departments of Metallurgy and Mine Engineering, the sum of $22,500.00, with which to equip the School of Mines building. The share of the Department of Ceramics in this fund, is approximately $8,000.00, allowing about $3,500 for the equipment of those parts of the building which are common to all Departments. The Ceramic Department is fortunate also in the fact that in moving into the new building, it will have available, all the equipment which has accumulated in the past 12 years in the quarters at Orton Hall. Necessarily there has been a large amount of money spent in Orton Hall in fixtures, furniture, and apparatus which has been built into position, and which cannot be readily moved to another, so that we will necessarily lose a considerable valuation. This is true of our laboratory desks, hoods, cases and cabinets, tables, bins for supplies, etc. About all that can be gotten out of much of this furniture, will be the lumber of which it is composed. But on the other hand, all of the machinery that has been in use, can be installed again without loss of value, and of course, all of the laboratory supplies, small apparatus, etc., will be available.

One of the heaviest items of loss in moving, will be the kiln house. I shall not be able to realize anything of importance from this, excepting a little second-hand material for construction. My plans for the new equipment to be added to the resources of the Department, comprise some of the following:

1st. A Compressed Air Pump, which has been purchased from the Geological Survey, second-hand, and which will furnish us compressed air for the laboratory, and for the use of furnaces.

2nd. An iron ball mill for the grinding of cement materials and Ceramic ingredients in which contamination by iron is not feared.

3rd. One new laboratory balance.

4th. A portable pottery kiln, from H. J. Caulkins, fired with oil. This piece of apparatus costs $175.00, and will be of very great value to the Department.

5th. A set of 6 ball mills, equipped with a total of 24 imported porcelain jars, by which it will be possible to issue to each student, one or more ball mill jars, for his own personal use, together with sufficient mill capacity to enable the use of the jars without delay. This equipment will cost $175.00, and is to be added to the ball mill equipment hitherto available.

6th. A Pelton & Crane Electrical Furnace, chiefly for use by the instructors, but also available for advanced students. This instrument will be exceedingly valuable for investigation work.

7th. At the same time, we are now making in the Ceramic Department, in conjunction with the Electrical Department, a high temperature furnace of electrical type, which will enable us to make fusion tests of clays, which have never before been practicable.

8th. My kiln house equipment in the new building will comprise one large down-draft kiln, substantially the same as now in use in the Department, using coal and coke fuel.

9th. One up-draft kiln similar to that now in use in the Department, fired with natural gas.

10th. One small crucible melting furnace, fired with natural gas, and air pressure.

11th. Two Hanna pneumatic-hammer screen shakers or sifters for use in screening fluid slips and dry powders respectively.

12th. In the students' workroom, the equipment will comprise a system of individual bins or cupboards, in which the students will keep their apparatus and equipment under lock and key. This system has been use in the present Department for several years past, but at no time has it been possible for the Department to equip every locker with the full complement of tools required. It is now possible to accomplish this, and to demand a much higher performance from each student, as he will have the tools and apparatus available within his own control.

13th. A store-room will be made a new feature of the Department.

Hitherto our supplies have been kept as best we could, in very unsatisfactory quarters, but in the new building a room will be provided for this purpose exclusively, in which it will be possible to store our Ceramic supplies of value, so that they may be issued as needed, and an account kept of them.

14th. In the department of pottery machinery and brick machinery, it is not contemplated to make any important additions, as the plant is already able to do much more work than has hitherto been demanded of it.

15th. In the chemical laboratory, our plans are to furnish each student with desk and hood room, substantially equivalent to what is now provided, but it will scarcely be feasible to use the old desks from Orton Hall, at least only a part of them. It is expected that the hoods and table tops will be made fire proof, but this is contingent on our being able to secure supplies at a reasonable cost that will be a safeguard from fire to the uttermost reasonable extent. The gas for the entire chemical laboratory will be under the control of one stopcock, located in a locked cupboard made for this purpose, so that one single action will cut off all gas from the Department. By making it the regular custom to close this stopcock except during laboratory hours, I believe the danger from fire can be still further minimized.

16th. An important addition in the chemical line, will be the equipment for Elementary Physical Chemistry, as applied to the Ceramic industry. The outfit for this work represents an investment of about $500.00, but should accomplish a large amount in bringing the students of the Ceramic Department up to an appreciation of the right and best phases of chemical thought.

17th. In the drawing-room, it is the intention to provide about 10 drawing tables and a drawing case for the reception and storage of drawings. The department has been requiring work of this sort, but has never owned a drawing board, nor a place to store drawings. The equipment of a drawing-room on a modest scale, is one of the great steps ahead made possible by this fund.

18th. Lecture rooms will accomplish several things never before possible. First. The blackboard space will enable putting a large class to the board at once. Second. A lecture desk and considerable amount of drawer and cupboard room will enable the storage and convenient use of a large number of specimens illustrating the lecture work. Third. Lantern equipment will be provided, by which it will be possible to greatly improve the presentation of the subject.

19th. Museum. We have suffered greatly in Orton Hall from lack of Museum facilities. The cases have been housed in the basement where they were not easily reached, and hence the material has been practically lost, so far as the teaching value is concerned. At the same time a large amount of material available for teaching purposes, has never been put on exhibition because of lack of suitable cases. The Department has received from the mineral exhibit of Ohio at St. Louis, all of the cases of the Ceramic and other mineral exhibits made there. Part of this material will be given to the Department of Geology, but the larger portion will be used in the Department of Ceramics, and will go a long way towards a Museum with suitable cases and furniture.

20th. The new building will provide separate rooms for the Director of the Department, Associate Professor Bleining, and possibly for the Assistant employed in the Ceramic laboratory.

This sketch gives in a general way, the advances in the way of material equipment, which we are expecting to install, and from which we anticipate very important results in the work of the Department.

Publications

(a) During the current year, I have published an address, (Vol. 5, Proceedings of the American Society for Testing Materials) on the subject of "The Rattling Test for Paving Brick, as a Safe Means of Disclosing the Limits of Permissible Absorption." This investigation was begun in the spring of 1905, completed and published during the summer, and during the present winter the same materials employed in the former test were subjected to still further investigations, using the natural frost during the winter to supplement the artificial freezing which had been given the samples during the summer. A still further addition to the paper is now in preparation.

(b) Similar investigations on a very much larger scale have been under way this year, under the auspices of the National Brick Manufacturers' Association. The work has been carried on and partly supported by the above organization. Mr. S. P. Ward has been the scholarship appointee, and has done the labor involved in the investigation. A study has been made of the behavior of about 1300 bricks, examining them by absorption, abrasion, and resistance to frost. The result of this investigation reinforces those of the preceding one, and will make about a 75 page brochure.

(c) During the fall and winter, I was engaged in editing and publishing the Bibliography of the Clays and Ceramic Arts, by Dr. John C. Branner of the Leland Stanford, Jr. University. As editor, I revised certain portions of this work, added some two or three hundred new titles, and looked after the work of publication. The book was published under the auspices of the American Ceramic Society.

(d) In conjunction with Mr. S. V. Peppel, I have been engaged in preparing a Bulletin for the Geological Survey of Ohio, on the subject of the Lime Resources and Lime Industries of Ohio. This report has made a careful study, with much new material, on the composition and location of the limestone area of the state. This work has been done jointly, but the latter part of the book consists of a treatise on the technology of the lime industries, which is by Mr. Peppel alone. The book amounts to about 450 pages, and is now almost ready for distribution. These comprise the principal publications made by myself during the past year.

Associate Professor Bleininger has done some investigation and experimental work in conjunction with Prof. Coggeshall, on the production of a high temperature electrical furnace. They started on a high temperature furnace imported from the Kryptol Company of Berlin, which gave very unsatisfactory results. They have succeeded in overcoming the faults of design and construction, and have made a furnace which is giving good results. They are also engaged in the manufacture of another, of which is confidently expected much better results. No publication has yet been made, but a note of some sort will undoubtedly be prepared as soon as their investigations are completed.

Very respectfully submitted,

EDWARD ORTON, JR.

DEPARTMENT OF EUROPEAN HISTORY

(1) Improvement in rooms. For the first time since the establishment of this Department, its office and recitation rooms are on one floor and in a connected suite. This is, of course, a great convenience for the instructors and it is also a great convenience for the students in this Department. Conferences, seminars, and reference reading in the office library can be more easily supervised than ever before. An additional recitation room in the same suite will be needed next year to accommodate a third section of European History 1, 2, and 3.

(2) Improvement in Library Facilities. The Department was fortunate in securing an appropriation of $250 last year for the purchase of new books. It was thus enabled to procure a number of recent and greatly needed works in English, Continental, and European Colonial History, exclusive of works relating to German History.

In the last named field—German History—the Department has built up within recent years what is probably the best special collection in Ohio. This collection was founded by the bequest of William Siebert, Esq., and has been steadily increased by the annual gift of $200 by his brothers, Messrs. John and Louis Siebert of Columbus. The collection as it stands in the University Library to-day has cost somewhat over $1100, and there is $498.08 now on hand for additional purchases.

(3.) Publications. I present herewith a list of the more important publications of the members of the Department.

A. By W. H. Siebert.

(Books.) The Underground Railroad from Slavery to Freedom. Pp. XXV+478. 1st Ed. 1898; 2nd Ed. 1899. Published by Macmillan Company.

(4.) Special Work. The head of the department has been carrying on a research, with the aid of several seminar students, on the European career of Lafayette, with a view to preparing a biographical study.

Respectfully submitted,

WILBUR H. SIEBERT,

Professor of European History and Head of the Department.

 DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

We have about completed a year's work in the new Physics Building, and take pleasure in reporting that we find the building well adapted to our work. The lighting, heating, and ventilation are excellent. The system of automatic temperature control has on the whole worked well. The control for humidity does not operate well, and as designed, can hardly be expected to do so. We are greatly pleased with the steadiness of the floors and walls of rooms used for laboratory work. The re-inforced concrete construction has proven to be rigid, and also to be almost entirely free from elastic vibration, thus relieving workers from the disturbing effects of their neighbor's movements, which were the cause of so much trouble in the rooms formerly occupied by the department. We find also that there is less disturbance arising from the operation of electric cars, than in our former rooms.

The larger part of the appropriation for equipment in this department was necessarily used in the purchase of furniture, cases, and various special devices and arrangements for general work. We were enabled however to purchase many much needed pieces of apparatus for lecture and laboratory use.

A notable step in advance in the work of the department was taken at the opening of the first term, in providing experimental work in Physics in connection with the class room work, for the class known as "Physics I."

This class has always been an anxiety to its teachers, being made up of students in the various short courses, and of students in long courses deficient in entrance Physics. A large part of the class has been deficient in elementary training, and have found it difficult to make even moderate attainments in the study of elementary physics. The year's experience has shown that these students are enabled to get a much better comprehension of the subject when they have the opportunity to handle the apparatus, and study the experiment itself, instead of studying its description in a book. The interest of the class has been better sustained, and their work as a class has been more successful. This class has been the especial charge of Dr. Earhart, assisted by Messrs. Clawson and Heil.

In addition to the discharge of their departmental duties, the men in the department have given some time to research work, to calls for public addresses, to convention or society work, etc.

Professor Cole published a paper on "The Tuning of Thermo-electric Receivers for Electric Waves" in the Physical Review for April, 1905. He has completed another paper, on "The Use of the Wehnelt Interrupter with the Righi Oscillator for Electric Waves," which will be published in the Physical Review. He is engaged on an experimental research on electrical radiation. During the year, Professor Cole read a paper before the Ohio Academy of Sciences, and sent a paper for reading before the American Physical Society, at its Philadelphia meeting. He also gave five addresses before county teachers' institutes, on subjects in physics. He has been appointed a member of committees of the North Central Association, and of the Physical Society, concerning the entrance unit in physics.

Dr. Kester published a paper (his thesis for the Ph. D. degree at Cornell) on "The Joule-Thomson Effect in Gases" in the physical Review for October, 1905. He has been granted an appropriation of fifty-dollars from the Rumford Fund of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, for continuing the research here, and is now preparing for the work. An additional appropriation of larger amount is virtually made for the purchase of the necessary air compressing pumps, receivers, etc. In supporting Dr. Kester's application for the grant, I promised the support of the University in his contemplated work, in the setting up of the machinery, and the furnishing of necessary power. The work is of great interest, being a revision and continuation of the classic research of James P. Joule and Sir William Thomson, (now Lord Kelvin).

Dr. Earhart has been engaged on a research on Spark Potentials in Liquid Dielectrics. The work is practically completed and ready for publication. My own time has been absorbed, aside from routine class and committee work, in the designing and completing of special arrangements for use of our building, and for laboratory work. The work on the special inventory, called for just before the holidays, caused me to lose the opportunity to attend the scientific meetings of holiday week.

On April 11-13, I attended a convention of State Sealers of Weights and Measures, held at the Bureau of Standards at Washington. A permanent organization was effected, and I was placed on the Executive Committee. The purpose of the organization is to promote the more effective enforcement of legislation as to weights and measures, and if possible to secure more uniform legislation on the subject among the states, and possibly some legislation by the Congress.

I wish to express my appreciation of the excellent work done by my associates during the year. All have been earnest and faithful in the discharge of their duties, have worked together in harmony, and have given me their cordial aid and support whenever called on. Our janitor also has proved to be the right man in the right place. His excellent care of the building, his constant good nature, and his efforts to anticipate our wants and comfort merit this appreciative mention.

Very respectfully yours,

B. F. THOMAS.

DEPARTMENT OF ROMANCE LANGUAGES

(1) Increase in enrollment. The total enrollment in the Department of Romance Languages for 1905-1906 has been 518, an increase of 11% over that of last year.

(2) Increased interest in Spanish. The number of students electing Spanish has been double that of 1904-1905. This is not due alone to practical and commercial considerations. Formerly Spanish was elected mainly by Engineering Students with practical reasons in mind. Now it is also elected largely by Arts students as a culture study. This is gratifying, since to my mind Spanish can be made of equal value with French as a disciplinary study.

(3) Increase in facilities. By changes made last fall which gave me the room previously used as an office by Professor Siebert, I have been able to have for the first time a good Seminary Room.

(4) Publications. Assistant Professor Ingraham has published recently a textbook (D. C. Heath & Co.) for use in our Spanish classes here and elsewhere; it is meeting with very favorable recognition. Professor Ingraham has also prepared and published a brochure of exercises for Spanish Composition work. Associate Professor Bruce has in preparation a textbook for use in French classes. It is to be published by Ginn & Company.

Very respectfully yours,

B. L. BOWEN.

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

OLIVE JONES, Librarian.

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

JULY 1, 1906.

DR. W. O. THOMPSON, President Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

DEAR SIR:— I submit herewith my report as Librarian for the year ending June 30, 1906.

The number of bound volumes recorded on the accession books of the Library is 67,027. The number reported last year was 58,190, showing an increase of 8,837. Of the volumes added during this year, 2,203 have been secured by purchase, 2,667 by binding, 1,617 by gift, 1 by exchange, 1 by replacement, and 2,348 by accessioning department books.

PURCHASES

The year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the Library. The appropriation of $12,000.00 for books is the largest ever made, and has made it possible to secure a number of important sets of periodicals and transactions which the Library has long needed. Among these are:—

- Allgemeine deutsche Biographie.
- American journal of anatomy.
- American society for testing materials.
- Bulletin de la société mathématique de France.
- Columbia University studies.
- Early English text society. Original and extra series. (This set is not yet complete.)
- Garden and forest.
- Hoefer. Nouvelle biographie générale.
- Jefferson. Writings. Monticello edition.
- Journal de mathématiques pures et appliquées.
- Kürschner. Deutsche National-Litteratur.
- London mathematical society. Proceedings.
- Quarterly journal of pure and applied mathematics.
- Zeitschrift für romanische Philologie.
- Zeitschrift des Vereins deutscher Ingenieure.

GIFTS

The gifts to the University have been along the lines noted in previous reports. Mr. Outhwaite has continued his donations to the Outhwaite Collection of Works on the Civil War, and Messrs. John and Louis Siebert made their annual gift of $200.00 for the Siebert Library of German History.

DEPARTMENT BOOKS

Mention was made in a previous report of the action of the Board of Trustees in ordering that "All books, magazines, papers, pamphlets, and maps, owned by the University and in the possession of various departments shall be recorded and catalogued by the librarian." This work could not be pushed at once, and it has been possible to do it only as the demands of other work permitted. However, since January, 1906, the books in five departments, i. e., Greek, Latin, English, Civil Engineering and Zoology, have been accessioned, plated, stamped, catalogued according to Simplified Rules, and the cards filed in the author catalogue.

The books in the English Department have also been catalogued according to Library of Congress rules, and the cards have been incorporated in the dictionary catalogue. There has also been made of the books in the English Department a duplicate author catalogue for the use of the department.

The work in the Department of Economics and Sociology was done in 1904. The books were accessioned, plated, stamped, and catalogued according to Library of Congress rules. They were first catalogued on heavy cards, which cards have been filed in the author catalogue. They were also catalogued on temporary slips for use when the dictionary catalogue should be made. Temporary sheets for the bound and unbound serials were made.

USE OF THE LIBRARY

The small space at the disposal of the Library for reading room purposes has not kept the number of people using the Library from increasing. In spite of poor conditions, the total attendance at the Library from the first of October to the last of May has been 69,552, the average per month being 8,694, the average per day being 371. The largest attendance for any one day was on February 12, 1906, when 727 people visited the Library. This number was not spread equally over the day, but was naturally congested into certain periods. During the hours from nine to eleven it was not at all unusual to have from 130 to 140 crowded into a space of 40 by 25 feet. This would not have been bad for an opera house or a street car, but for a reading room it has had its manifest disadvantages. It will be seen that under these conditions it was impossible to develop the reference work of the Library.

These crowded conditions have not applied to the Law Library, the one room which was equipped being still adequate for the use of the College of Law. The total attendance at the Law Library from the first of October to the last of May has been 16,367. The average per month has been 2,046 and the average per day 89. The largest attendance for any one day was on November 16, 1905, when 192 were present during the day.

SPECIAL WORK

The work of making a dictionary catalogue for the Library, which was mentioned in last year's report, has been continued during this year. The thorough cataloguing of the Division of English Literature, which was mainly done under the direction of Miss Martha Hartford, has been completed by Mr. Max D. Morton and has been made available for the students of the University. As has been mentioned in former reports, dictionary cataloguing though of the highest degree of value for any library has been the last thing provided for in the organization of the University Library. So long as money for administration was limited, it was used for developing facilities for securing books and for personal work with the students, rather than for advanced cataloguing. This policy is still felt to have been a good one. However, the fact of having been so long without a dictionary catalogue makes one that much more appreciated.

STAFF

At the beginning of the year there were added to the Staff of the Library two assistants, Mr. Max D. Morton, Reference assistant, and Miss Lilian Huffman, Accession assistant. Both came to the work with special ability and training, and the year has proven the wisdom of their selection. In the fall Miss Martha D. Hartford presented her resignation to take effect the first of October. Miss Hartford's work as an assistant in the University was of a very high grade, and her marriage has taken from the library profession an excellent worker. Mr. Morton was assigned to the position made vacant by Miss Hartford, and Miss Ida May Fisher was appointed to the position made vacant by Mr. Morton. Miss Fisher's work during this year has been excellent and she has proven a valuable acquisition to the Library Staff.

INTER-LIBRARY LOANS

The Library again acknowledges its indebtedness to other libraries for the courtesy of many loans.

Respectfully yours,
OLIVE JONES.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

OCTOBER 24, 1907.

HON. F. E. POMERENE, President of Board of Trustees, Ohio State University.

DEAR SIR: — I have the honor to present, through you, to the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University for transmission to the Governor of Ohio, as required by law, the thirty-seventh annual report of the President of the Ohio State University for the year ending June 30, 1907.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The term of service of the Hon. David Meade Massie expired in May, 1907. He was succeeded by the Hon. Walter J. Sears, of the class of 1894. It is appropriate, in this connection, to call attention to the fact that the services of Mr. Massie have been of a high character, and that his retirement from the Board, owing to his continued absence from the country in public service, was a matter of universal regret to his associates. During his term of service, Mr. Massie revealed a genuine interest in all phases of University progress and deserves especial comment for the services rendered in connection with the Henry Folsom Page estate, which was finally settled before he retired from the Board. The University is to be congratulated upon having the gratuitous services of such men.

FACULTY

I have the painful duty of reporting the death of John Wright Decker, Professor of Dairying, which occurred at his home June 21, 1907. Professor Decker was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin in the class of 1890, and served for some time in that institution as Instructor in Dairying. He came to the Ohio State University in 1899 and completed eight years of service. During this time he greatly extended the work in Dairying, aroused an interest in the subject hitherto unknown in Ohio, rendered important public service in Ohio and elsewhere for the dairying interests, and seemed to be entering upon a large and important work. His untimely death was a distinct loss to the cause which he so intelligently represented, as well as to the cause of university education, in which he manifested an intelligent and abiding interest. He has been succeeded in his work by Professor Oscar Erf, from the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts of Kansas, and a graduate of the Ohio State University in the class of 1899.

Several changes have occurred during the year, owing to resignation. The demand for men trained to teach, especially in professional and technical lines, is somewhat greater than the supply. This furnishes frequent opportunities for men to change locations, securing promotion or work especially suited to their tastes. In consequence, the tendency to increase of salaries is strong. Men are even disposed to move from large faculties to positions of independent management, thus making it certain that every year will see a considerable shifting in the teaching force of institutions having a large number of teachers. So long as the maximum salary for experienced men is as low as at the Ohio State University, it is not practicable to increase the salaries of assistant professors and associate professors in sufficient amount to retain younger men to whom attractive offers are made.

This makes it worth while to suggest the propriety of removing the limitation now placed upon the University Trustees. The law provides that the salary of a professor shall not exceed $2,500. Upon this matter, two things may be said. First, the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University is the only educational board in the state with such a limitation. If there ever was a reason for not giving the trustees discretion in such matters, the limitation might have been justified, but the experience of thirty years certainly assures the state that this limitation is a serious handicap to the interests of the University. In the second place, the standard of living, the cost of living, and the limited supply of high class professors, make it impossible to deal justly with men whose best years are given to the cause of education. For some years, suggestions have frequently been made that such legal limitation should be removed. During the session of the Legislature in 1906, a bill was introduced to this effect in the Senate and was referred to the Committee on Colleges and Universities, and will properly, therefore, be under consideration by the coming session of the Legislature. In the pressure for the great issues of the University, a matter of this sort is apt to lie in abeyance, but it is sincerely hoped that during the coming winter the Legislature will see the wisdom of leaving the Trustees free to pay such salaries as the services of the men, and funds of the institution, will warrant.

ENROLLMENT

The records show for the year closing, a total enrollment of 2,277. This shows a net increase of 120 over the record of the previous year. The increase is distributed chiefly in the colleges of Arts, Philosophy, and Science, Engineering, and Veterinary Medicine. The number of degrees granted in June, 1907, was 249. In addition to these there were 55 certificates granted in the short courses, and in the three year courses of Law and Veterinary Medicine, making a total of 304 who have completed courses offered by the University.

SUMMER SCHOOL WORK

The Summer of 1906 which is reported herewith, showed an increase in attendance. A study of the work done by these students reveals the fact that the Ohio State University is affording opportunities that are attractive to students, and is performing a service not elsewhere provided. It is proposed to increase the work from six to eight weeks, and also to provide a school for artisans which will bring to the industrial classes superior facilities for such improvement. It is not to be disguised that the chief aim of the University in its summer work, is to extend the facilities offered to people who are not able to attend the regular University classes, or who cannot conveniently avail themselves of its opportunities at other times. There is a sincere desire to make the University as serviceable to all people as the limitation of funds and facilities will permit.

WINTER TERM

During the Winter term, from January until April, 1907, the University offered, through its Faculty of the College of Agriculture, a short course of ten weeks, designed to meet the needs of young farmers who have not enjoyed the opportunities for education in Agriculture. One hundred and thirty-six were enrolled in this course. This was a gratifying response to the first effort in behalf of a class of persons for whom no provision has hitherto been made. It is exactly in harmony with the theory of the School for Artisans elsewhere referred to. In this Winter course special emphasis was put on the practical side of agricultural education, such as the breeding, feeding, care, and judging of live stock; the testing and breeding of seed corn, elementary instruction in the treatment of ordinary injuries to live stock, the elements of dairying, and some instruction in the use of fertilizers. It is proper to make mention of the very satisfactory services rendered in the course of lectures delivered by non-residents upon the practical topics of farm life as seen by men engaged in agricultural pursuits. The conditions in Ohio are such as to warrant the belief that this Winter term should appeal to thousands of our young farmers, and that an annual attendance of five or six hundred might reasonably be expected.

THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

In an act passed by the Legislature in the last session, provision was made for the establishment of a Teacher's College at the University. That college has now been organized under the title of the College of Education and Mr. W. W. Boyd, for several years the efficient High School Visitor for the University, has been made Dean. The preliminary work of organization will occupy most of the work of the current year, but, meantime, instruction will be offered to such students, as are prepared for this work. The aim is, to require for entrance the completion of at least two years of work of collegiate grade. The courses will be so adjusted as to make it possible for persons to complete the Freshman and Sophomore years in any well organized college and spend the last two years at the University, devoting the time almost exclusively to professional studies. Provision will also be made for the development of courses designed to prepare teachers of Manual Training, Domestic Science, and Drawing. It will be the aim of the college to prepare teachers for High Schools, and furnish facilities for the preparation of supervisors and superintendents. Courses will be offered furnishing opportunities for teachers of experience to improve their professional preparation and it is hoped that graduate courses may promptly be offered for teachers now holding degrees and who desire to enlarge their educational horizon. This movement in the University is a part of the new policy of the state in the matter of professional training for teachers. Already it has called forth enthusiastic interest from men engaged in public school work. The beginnings will, of necessity, be small and the preliminary education required will delay the entrance of students upon this work for the reason that two years of collegiate instruction will be required before enrollment. It is confidently believed that this effort to put the education of our High School teachers upon a high plane will meet with general approval and it is hoped that the Legislature will make such recognition in providing equipment and facilities as will encourage the ambitious teachers of Ohio to believe that within their own state the best of professional preparation for teaching is possible.

PUBLICATIONS

During the last year the University has published an Alumni Bulletin containing complete lists of the organization of the University from 1870. It was the aim to put into this Bulletin a complete list of the trustees, administrative officers, members of the Faculty, graduates of the University, and the organization of the several Alumni Societies throughout the country. This Bulletin contained a list of 2,434 graduates beginning with the class of 1878, which contained six members. It is expected that this publication will appear at regular intervals.

A plan is now contemplated of publishing in a Bulletin a report of the contributions of members of the faculty to the literature of the subjects which they were teaching. Reference to the extracts from departmental reports will disclose the fact that members of the faculty are actively engaged in the publication of valuable material of a scientific character and in producing text books suitable to the needs of teachers and students. For a number of years this work has been carried on with no formal or public recognition. It is hoped that hereafter complete annual statements may be made showing the literary and scientific activities of the Faculty.

BUILDING PROGRESS

The report for last year shows the appropriations made by the Legislature for the enlargement of the University. These were the most generous ever made in the history of the University and have occasioned the most grateful recognition of the State's support. These appropriations, so far as they relate to the equipment of buildings, have been expended for the purposes intended. So far as they relate to new buildings, the appropriations are now being used. The three buildings for the College of Agriculture will be completed and equipped, so far as the funds available for that purpose will allow, prior to the first of January, 1908. These buildings constitute an appropriate and adequate provision for the present needs of the Department of Animal Husbandry. They will greatly increase the facilities for agricultural education and make some needed provision for the special work carried on during the winter months. The laboratories for Mechanical and Electrical Engineering will be completed and practically occupied before January 1st, 1908. When this equipment shall have been completed, the University will have increased facilities for these departments and facilities not surpassed anywhere in the middle West. The Women's Dormitory for which $60,000 was appropriated is in process of erection and will form, it is hoped, one of a group of four similar buildings for the accommodation of women. It is hoped that the Legislature will make such provision for the equipment of this building as will make it possible to occupy it in September, 1908. The use of the money appropriated by the Legislature for the above named buildings and for the equipment of the several scientific departments, will greatly increase the efficiency of the University. It is appropriate to add that the character of the buildings is such as to commend the University to the further confidence of the state.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS

A University enrolling more than two thousand students with a prospect of a steady increase in numbers for years to come, presents a difficult administrative problem.

For several years past it has been necessary to increase the number of the teaching force and also to make some increase in the salaries paid to teachers. These increases have not been as large as they ought to have been but they have made it impracticable for the University, with its fixed revenues, to make provision for the increased current expenses and for new equipment and apparatus needed to keep the standard of work in the University up to what it was when students were fewer and revenues relatively larger. The present needs of the University may be classified under the following heads:

First — Specific appropriations for some subjects now carried on the ordinary budget in order to release that money for the payment of salaries.

Second — Appropriations for the better equipment of existing departments of instruction. The lack of funds for the purpose of buying new apparatus and new equipment for some years past has rendered this class of appropriations the most imperative now demanding consideration. The new buildings which have recently been erected should be promptly equipped with necessary apparatus and thus brought to a state of satisfactory efficiency.

The third line of appropriation should be for enlarging the plant by way of new buildings. A million dollars could now be used effectively for meeting needs already recognized. The buildings of the earlier years were made apparently without expectation that the University would ever reach its present size. These buildings were often occupied by a number of departments in somewhat hampered quarters. New departments have been organized and the student body has so increased as to make the facilities quite out of proportion to the demand. Among the buildings that would seem to require immediate attention, mention may be made of Botany, Horticulture and Forestry, the Veterinary Clinic, a large Drill Hall for the Battalion which could be utilized, especially at Commencement, as a great auditorium, a new building for shops to accommodate the work in Industrial Arts, provision for the Department of Rural Engineering in the College of Agriculture, and the remodeling of Hayes Hall for a Women's Building. In addition to these it should be added that further provision for women should be made in enlarging the dormitory facilities, and an appropriation should be made for the complete remodeling of the Dormitory for Boys, or for a new building. The present structure is now abandoned and is in such condition as to raise a doubt whether it would be wise to expend money in improving it. The mistake of earlier years has been in providing buildings not subject to ready enlargement and that were too small to be of long service. The new era began with Townshend Hall and the wisdom of adequate provision has been clearly demonstrated in the buildings recently erected for Chemistry and the School of Mines. Several buildings now on the campus are so crowded as to make it urgent for the state to enlarge them. This development of the buildings on the Campus makes further provision for the Heating Plant imperative. The increased demands made upon the University are manifest evidence that the people of the state are interested in its progress and development. The plans of the Trustees have never been in advance of the needs. A systematic effort to provide for these needs by the Legislature, will soon make the University efficient in its work and a satisfaction to the state.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, I have pleasure in stating that the year has been marked by hearty and active co-operation on the part of the Board of Trustees, Faculty, and students. While the building era of the University is upon us, the demands upon the time of the Trustees are so great as to make their services a distinct contribution to the State worthy of grateful recognition by the people. They serve gratuitously and often at great personal inconvenience. The interests of a Faculty of practically 200 members, a student body of more than 2,000, and a property of nearly three millions in value, require constant attention and frequent meetings of considerable duration. The honorable character of such service may well be cited as one of the best proofs of the generous, patriotic spirit of our citizenship.

The report of the Librarian, extracts from Departmental Reports, also detailed reports from the departments of Animal Husbandry and Civil Engineering, and several tables of statistics and itemized reports, as required by law, are herewith submitted and made a part of this report.

Very respectfully,

W. O. THOMPSON.

ANNUAL REPORT

June 30, 1907.

HON. ANDREW L. HARRIS, Governor of Ohio:

SIR:—In accordance with law, the Board of Trustees respectfully submits the thirty-seventh annual report of The Ohio State University, it being for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907.

ENDOWMENTS

The part of the irreducible debt of the State which forms the principal endowment of the University, at the date of the last annual report, June 30, 1906, was $762,042.74, on which the annual interest was $45,722.56.

Under the operations of an act of the General Assembly entitled, "An act to quiet title to unpatented lands in the Virginia Military District of Ohio," passed March 14, 1889, there has been added to the above principal $12,784.60; and from the rents and profits of Page Will Lands, and from the sale of said lands the sum of $32,903.21 has been added, making the principal endowment fund June 30, 1907, $807,730.55, on which the annual interest is $48,463.83.

THE WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN PRIZE

The Honorable William Jennings Bryan, on July 20, 1898, gave to the University $250.00, the annual interest thereon to be awarded as a prize for the best essay, discussing the principles which underlie our form of government. This amount was placed in the State Treasury under the provisions of Section 4105-15, R. S. of Ohio, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this principal has been augmented by additions of interest in years when no prize has been awarded, until at the close of the year covered by this report the principal sum has become $382.77, on which the annual interest is $22.96. During the past year no prize was awarded.

THE ROBINSON FELLOWSHIP IN ENGINEERING

January 28, 1905, Stillman W. Robinson, Emeritus Professor of Mechanical Engineering, gave to the University, as an endowment fund for a fellowship in Engineering, $5,000.00. This amount was placed in the State Treasury, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S.

of Ohio, this amount has been increased in years when no fellowship was awarded, until at the close of this year the principal sum is $6,093.84, on which the annual interest is $365.63.

During the past year the fellowship was not awarded.

THE C. NEWTON BROWN SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The fund donated by the graduates of the Civil Engineering Department, for a fellowship in Civil Engineering, to carry the name of the C. N. Brown Scholarship, in memory of Professor C. Newton Brown, was started May 18, 1903, by a gift of $1,000. On December 1, 1904, a further gift of $92.09 was received, these amounts were at once placed in the State Treasury under statutes above mentioned, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this fund has been increased, and on June 30, 1907, the principal sum was $1,376.55.

SETH ADAMS MEMORIAL FUND

As mentioned in the last annual report, Professor C. S. Plumb, of the Animal Husbandry Department, started on July 1, 1903, a popular subscription among the farmers of Ohio to erect a building for the care of sheep, said building to be named after the late Seth Adams. Starting at the above date with $52.72 this fund has been increased by further donations and additions of interest, and on June 30, 1907, had increased to $426.87, which amount is invested in an interest-bearing certificate of deposit, placed with a local bank.

J. MCLAIN SMITH FUND

The principal of this fund on June 30, 1906, was $23,141.50. January 1, 1907, the semi-annual interest installment amounting to $694.24 was added to the principal, and a further payment of $400.00 received March 28, 1907, from the Executors was also added to the principal, making this $24,235.74 on June 30, 1907.

The interest due June 30, 1907, amounting to $721.32 was drawn from the State Treasury, turned over to the Treasurer of the University, and expended in accordance with the terms of the will, to the following parties:

EMERGENCY ALLOWANCES

School of Mines Tunnel

At the last session of the Legislature the appropriation for a tunnel connecting the new Mines Building with the central power plant was omitted from the appropriation bill. This was supplied August 1, 1906, by the State Emergency Board in the amount of $5,500.00. At the date of this report there remains a balance unexpended of $266.02, which will be used for castings to complete the work.

Chemical Store Room

On the morning of October 14, 1906, a fire broke out in the store room of the new Chemistry Building. The fire was confined to the store room, and the room directly above. A careful estimate of the loss was made at $12,000 on building, equipment and contents.

At a meeting of the State Emergency Board held November 13, 1906, allowances of $6,500.00 for repairs, $5,000.00 for supplies and $500.00 for furniture and office supplies were made. EXTRACTS FROM DEPART-
MENTAL REPORTS

DEPARTMENT OF CIVIL ENGINEERING

PROFESSOR C. E. SHERMAN

PRESIDENT W. O. THOMPSON, Ohio State University.

DEAR SIR:— Since my last formal report to you, the special appropriation of $6,000.00 for equipping the department has become available and has practically been exhausted in purchasing the following:

EQUIPMENT

Surveying. For the field work in surveying there have been purchased one plane table with telescopic alidade, four wye levels, four dumpy levels, three high grade transits, four plain transits, and the necessary accompanying level rods, stadia rods, tapes, chains, marking-pins, flag-poles, etc. The new instruments purchased have already been of great value in increasing the efficiency of the work. To illustrate, previously a beginner in surveying had charge of an instrument not oftener than three times during the fall term. Now he has responsible charge at least six times during this term, thus giving him more proficiency in manipulation, but more important still enabling him to better understand the fundamentals of construction, of operation, and of adjustment of the instruments, as explained in the class room.

The instruments purchased represent the standard makes of various manufacturers, and afford the student a chance to compare the different forms, and assist him to choose an outfit upon the beginning of his professional career. The instruments have been housed in cabinets at once compact and convenient for student use. The cabinets were especially designed by instructors of the department, each cabinet containing a complete surveying outfit.

Drafting. For the work in drafting have been added drawing tables and stools, file-cases, drawing instruments, lockers for students, cabinets for drawing instruments, etc. This has been made necessary partly on account of the increased attendance, and partly to properly house and care for the scattered drawings and instruments previously in possession, and constantly growing in number.

Recitation. For illustrating the work in class rooms there have been made a fine set of ten models for stereotomy, five elegant models representing structural steel details, a projection lantern outfit, cabinets for housing models and specimens, map racks to save from further rapid destruction the valuable maps of the department, and other inexpensive additions. Included in the latter, for instance, is picture railing for each of the three recitation rooms, from which are hung instructive drawings, maps, photographs, enlargements, etc., acquired by purchase and donation.

Cement and Concrete Laboratory. To the equipment of this laboratory have been added cement moulds made after special design by the department, glass mixing slabs, moisture closets for storing test pieces, apparatus for making accelerated tests and for specific gravity tests, together with the smaller tools used in cement testing. For the work in concrete there has been added apparatus for more quickly handling concrete beams, extensometers for use in testing such beams, storage bins for concrete material, cast iron cylinders for forming compression test pieces, etc. For the use of the students doing work in this laboratory twenty metal lockers have been installed.

Road Laboratory. The equipment necessary to make the ordinary tests on road metals, other than brick, has been installed, the additions since my last report being, an automatic moulding machine made by the International Instrument Company of Cambridge, Mass., a ball mill, and other minor apparatus. The laboratory is now equipped for making mechanical analyses, impact tests for cementation, and abrasion tests of road metals, on a scale and basis that enable the tests to be compared and correlated with those of the road laboratory in the Bureau of Highways of the National Government at Washington.

Carpenter Shop. An excellent set of carpenter's tools has been purchased for use of the instructors and advanced students, in making apparatus. In fact these tools proved extremely useful in constructing some of the equipment mentioned in the foregoing paragraphs.

Thesis Work. Much of the foregoing equipment is available for thesis work. The surveying instruments are available for surveys in connection with thesis projects. The additional equipment in the Cement and Concrete laboratory and Road Material Testing laboratory expand our facilities for giving such work as thesis work. In addition a large drafting table has been provided in a special room, where projects requiring large sized drawings may be worked out. A large number of catalogues has been added to our files and placed in neat boxes in this room for the consultation of those engaged in thesis projects.

Some of the apparatus above described has been very difficult to get, in fact some of the models had to be made in our own carpenter shop under the direction of our instructors. In the case of stadia rods, more satisfactory designs were obtained and at cheaper cost than could be had from dealers, by making them ourselves. A small sum was expended for book-cases, filing cabinets, and minor furnishings for the various offices of the instructors. It has been my policy to encourage each one to make the University his workshop and his office here his study.

SCHOLARSHIP

Last year, I mentioned the results of a former thesis contest in which this department was successful against all other engineering colleges in the United States and Canada. No similar contest has since been held, but that our students still stand well may be inferred from the results of National Civil Service examinations held since last January. In February, a member of the Senior class took third place in an examination for Examiner of Surveys, and a few days later two of his classmates took third and fourth places respectively in an examination for Clerk-Draftsman. More recently a member of the class of 1904 was first in an examination for civil engineer on the new filtration plant at Washington, D. C., and another member of the same class was within half of one per cent. of first place in an examination for Assistant Civil Engineer in the Bureau of Yards and Docks, U. S. Navy. None of our men made special preparation to take these examinations, all of them continuing their regular daily tasks in school or out until examination day. Several of these examinations were for important positions. The student who passed the first one is receiving $210 per month and his traveling expenses. The alumnus who passed the last one mentioned, enters the Navy with the rank of ensign, and as he was the youngest to pass the examination and promotion is by seniority, he will, barring resignation or accident, one day be head of the bureau with the rank of rear admiral.

The importance of the last named examination is further attested by the fact that it covered 29 different subjects and required to cover it ten days of rapid work, exclusive of the rigid physical examination which preceded the mental, and by the further fact that during the previous three years, during which time the examination was given three times, no one passed it.

In all the Civil Service examinations mentioned, only one of our men was unsuccessful. No examinations other than those noted were taken by our students, as far as I know.

PRACTICAL WORK

The department has kept its surveying courses in close touch with practice through the summer surveying camps during the past few years. This course of four weeks of practical surveying in camp at the close of each school year was first introduced in 1900, and during the lifetime of Professor Brown, the work consisted in solving, in the field, problems made up by the instructors. Latterly, however, the demand from practicing engineers and from corporations for assistance has been so great that during the past four years nearly every student in the department has been engaged during the summers at a salary on engineering work, while those who went to camp were engaged also in practical work at some rate of partial compensation. The record of this camp work reads thus:

1903. Nine students and three instructors surveyed 2,000 acres of coal lands in southeastern Kentucky for an Indianapolis syndicate.

1904. No summer work done by any department of the university for lack of funds. .

1905. Thirty-two students and four instructors surveyed and mapped topographically 42 miles of roads in Yellowstone Park for the National Government.

1906. Thirteen students and two instructors made surveys for street, sidewalk, and sewer improvements for the town of Willoughby, Ohio. After the conclusion of the work the people voted the bonds, the work was begun and one of the students retained as resident engineer and one of the instructors as engineer in charge for the town.

I have thus to report that if any student in our department during the past four years did not secure practical work at a salary during his summer vacations, he was furnished such experience in summer camp at such small cost as to be merely nominal. I believe our record in this respect has not been surpassed, if equalled, by any college in the country.

STATISTICS

Enrollment. The department recently prepared an exhibit for the Jamestown Exposition. The following data exhibited there may be of public interest:

School Year.	Specials.	First Year.	Second Year.	Third Year.	Fourth Year.	Total.
1900-1901	4	53	26	26	10	119
1901-1902	5	58*	41	20	18	137

1904-1905	5	75*	68	30	19	192
1905-1906	5	75*	65	38	22	200
1906-1907		83*	63	33	27	206

* Since the students are not classified by departments the first year, these figures are estimated from the registrar's statistics. The figures show a steady growth, and as seen in the last column the attendance has nearly doubled since 1900. Owing to the great demand during the past five years from the practicing profession for assistance, irregularity in the figures is caused by students remaining out of school on practical work.

DEPARTMENT OF ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

PROFESSOR C. S. PLUMB

The Department of Animal Husbandry during the past year has made important growth in several directions.

The class room instruction has considerably increased, and three instructors have given a large amount of time to classes. During the winter term every hour in the day from 8:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. excepting Saturday and convocation hour, was occupied with Animal Husbandry classes. During some of these hours two different classes were in session. Saturday morning from 8:00 to 10:00 was also occupied. Every afternoon was occupied in laboratory work, when from two to three instructors were engaged. The short winter course class in this department, consisting of about 125 men, was divided into two sections. The Live Stock Pavilion, which it is anticipated will be ready for use another year, will materially add to the facilities of the department.

During the past year very important additions have been made to the equipment of the department, by purchasing more and better live stock. Brief mention might be made of some of these purchases, as follows:

A Morgan stallion, "Lambert G.," bought of E. D. Hinds & Son, of Fowler, Vermont.

One heavy draft gelding, from Hadley Bros., Radnor, Ohio.

Two imported Percheron mares, bought of the Hartman Stock Farm, Columbus, Ohio. One of these, a very beautiful show mare, named Coquette, unfortunately died of pulmonary gangrene only a few weeks after purchase.

Three Aberdeen Angus cows, two with calves at foot, were purchased of O. D. Estle of Clifton and R. J. Corey of Yellow Springs.

One imported Aberdeen Angus bull, "King of the Rovers," purchased of H. M. Brown, Hillsboro.

One Shorthorn cow, "Matchless Mary," was bought of J. C. Stuckey of Mechanicsburg.

A pair of Clydesdale geldings, bought of James Gillie, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Four Southdown ewes, from R. C. Watt, Cedarville.

One Cotswold ram, from Frank Harding, Waukesha, Wisconsin.

One Merino ram, from C. H. Bell, Ashley.

Some very desirable additions of show steers to the herd have also been made.

The herd at present contains about 75 head of cattle of all ages, including fine specimens of Shorthorns, Aberdeen Angus, Jerseys, Holstein-Friesians, and Red Polled. A number of the animals were imported from Europe and represent some of the choicest specimens in Ohio. The horse stable at present contains 22 animals, among which are three Clydesdales, one Percheron, three Hackneys, and one Morgan, all registered or eligible. We also have a flock of about 50 sheep and lambs, including Merinos, Shropshires, Southdowns, and Cotswolds, all pure bred, and about 100 head of swine of all ages, including Berkshires, Poland Chinas, Large Yorkshires, and Thin Rinds.

The value of this stock to the University as educational material is very great. These animals are extensively used in the class room in judging work, and criticism can be made of them with a freedom that is not permissible when the class judges stock owned by private parties. Further, having ample material at hand, enables us to conduct class work at the University quite independent of the weather.

One noteworthy feature is the part played by the department in the 1906 International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago. The University showed in competition with half a dozen colleges and many exhibitors from the United States and Canada, a herd of steers and several exhibits of fat swine. The University was very successful, showing the champion Galloway steer, the champion Berkshire barrow, and winning second prize each on two-year-old Aberdeen Angus steer, cross bred yearling steer, and Hereford special. We also showed first and second prize Berkshire barrows over one year old, first prize under six months old, and won second prize each on pen of Berkshire barrows and also Poland China barrows.

Our students also took part in the Students' Intercollegiate Live Stock Judging Contest, and secured third rank for general excellence among six colleges competing, including Ontario, Canada, Iowa, Texas, Michigan, and Kansas. The horse judging trophy which was won in 1905 by the Ohio State University, was won in 1906 by the Iowa Agricultural College, while the Ontario Agricultural College won the trophy for doing the best work in judging cattle, sheep and swine.

The part taken by the University in the International Live Stock Exposition has been a source of gratification to many stockmen in Ohio, while it has aroused much enthusiasm in the animal husbandry work in the University.

Publications. In December, 1906, Messrs. Ginn & Co., of Boston, published a volume written by myself on "Types and Breeds of Farm Animals," comprising 563 pages, with many illustrations. This work has been received with favor by many colleges, and the indications are that it will come into extensive use in the class room as well as in the library.

During the year the teaching force has remained much the same, Dr. C. W. Gay, however, being promoted to Assistant Professor of Animal Husbandry, and Mr. W. H. Palmer from Fellow to Assistant. One of the important steps taken by the Board of Trustees was the creation of the position of Superintendent of Live Stock, and the later appointment to the place of Mr. David M. Fyffe, of Ft. Wayne, Ind. Mr. Fyffe reported for duty October 1st, and has proven himself a valuable addition to the department force. The instructional force of the department has worked with zeal and enthusiasm, while the students have co-operated to give results most encouraging for the future.

DEPARTMENT OF BOTANY

PROFESSOR W. A. KELLERMAN

The quality and quantity of the work on the part of the students has been quite satisfactory; it has been, in fact, much better than that of students in the department a few years ago. This improvement is partly due to the better preparation of the students and higher ideals of scientific work — perhaps partly attributable also to the increased efficiency of the department. We have now more instructors, and better equipped instructors. The facilities have increased in some directions — even if funds for growth and expansion have been absolutely cut off. No employe has failed to devote his whole time and energy to the proper work of the department — not merely during the portion of the year when classes recite, but many weeks beyond. The result is, that material much needed has been brought together, in more than one case at considerable financial outlay on part of the instructor.

The time so far as available beyond class and laboratory instruction and other exacting routine duties in department work, has been devoted to special study and research. For myself, this has been done most largely during the winter term; for the others, the summer vacation has been largely utilized in this way. The plan of having the department open the entire year has proven very advantageous. For three years, during which time it has been in operation, the department has reaped decided advantages. I trust it may be continued indefinitely, and desire to request, as formerly, that the Board permanently allow me to take my "vacation" in the winter term, remaining on duty at Columbus during the summer. It is of course, in no ordinary college sense that I would expect to be given a "vacation" in the winter, for my whole time and energies are devoted exclusively to college scientific work during this period, as they are the other portions of the entire year. This change in the work, however, affords me ample recuperation and opportunity for scientific work — financially expensive to me, of course, but certainly advantageous in every way to the University.

Referring especially to material collected during the last winter trip to Guatemala, I may say that I secured a large amount of herbarium specimens of very interesting tropical plants, and much material for class and laboratory use, and general demonstration. This includes a few new species of flowering plants, also many new species of microscopic fungi, parasitic, and therefore of economic importance.

Fortunately, the avenues for publication of work done by the instructors and students of the department are fairly satisfactory; they have clearly had such influence as would be expected. The prompt publication of research work is one of the strongest incentives to students of the natural sciences, and our work would surely suffer if either the Ohio Naturalist, the Journal of Mycology, or the Mycological Bulletin were discontinued. These are privately supported periodicals, but an enlightened course for the University would seem to be, at least, a consideration of means and methods for their assured continuance and ample development. The policy at present in vogue has practically withdrawn even encouragement to publication, the propriety of which is questionable if our "school" is a real university.

Finally, and briefly, I will refer to the summer term of the University — which I regard as very advantageous in every way both to this department and to the University as a whole. My own opinion and advice would be that it should be lengthened to nine weeks each year, and that more University work ought to be offered.

The courses for teachers are doubtless ample at present, and six weeks courses perhaps are long enough for that class. The extension of the work I would not advocate to the detriment of department appropriations. I believe the Legislature should, and would, if asked, provide additional funds so far as needed.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

PROFESSOR WILLIAM MCPHERSON

The growth of the department, as well as the marked change in the conditions prevailing in the High Schools made it necessary to modify some of the courses in the department. These changes have been authorized by the various faculties, as well as by the general faculty and in a general way are as follows:

(a) A new elementary course is offered which is to be taken by all students who have had satisfactory training in elementary chemistry in a secondary school. Many of the High Schools now offer a fairly thorough course in chemistry and it is manifestly unwise to assign such students to the same course taken by those who have had no training whatever in the science. Changes have also been made whereby the students in all the colleges will have uniform work. Heretofore the course in the Arts College has been three hours while in the other colleges the course has been five hours. A uniform course of four hours in elementary chemistry has been adopted for all the colleges. Special courses are offered for the short course students, their work being entirely separate from the students in the four year courses.

(b) Another marked change in courses consists in the introduction of a number of lecture courses for advanced and graduate students. The number of such students has been steadily increasing and every effort is being made by the department to encourage them and to make this branch of work of a high order.

The wisdom of transferring all students in elementary chemistry to one department has been plainly shown. The laboratories for elementary chemistry, while plain and inexpensive in equipment, have been pronounced by many as the most convenient and best equipped in the country. While the number of students is large the work has been so systematized that each student is constantly under supervision. Assistant Professor Evans has been untiring in his efforts to make this work thorough.

Inasmuch as the science of chemistry finds application in almost every field of human activity, constant demands are made for work along new lines. It has been the policy of the department to give the student a thorough knowledge of the general principles of chemistry rather than a knowledge of the application to distinct lines of work; nevertheless, certain additional lines of work have been started. The course in industrial chemistry has been greatly strengthened, although still handicapped through lack of equipment of the industrial laboratories. The same is true of the electro-chemistry — a field of immense importance since the development of water power as a source of electric current has made it possible to use electricity very largely in chemical manufacturing.

Every effort is made to bring the student in as close touch as possible with the applications of chemistry. Frequent excursions are made to manufacturing plants and it has also been possible in some cases to secure persons engaged in special lines of chemical work to lecture to the classes.

I am very desirous of strengthening in every way the advanced work of the department. Equipment is necessary for this and equally important is the attitude of all the instructors in reference to research work. It is absolutely indispensable to the success of the work that each person either alone or in connection with his students should be engaged in carrying out some line of research work. The department has been greatly handicapped in this line of work during the past three years because of the destruction of the laboratory and its equipment. We are beginning now, however, to be in a position where such work can be carried on and I believe that without exception all the instructors in the department have some such work on hand. I trust that the University will in every way encourage such work and will make it clear that it will be an important factor in determining advancement in rank.

Publications. The text book in chemistry by McPherson and Henderson was published by Ginn & Company last September and notwithstanding the lateness of the publication the third edition is now being printed. Professor McPherson and Mr. Warren A. Ruth, a fellow in the department, have also published an article on "Corn Oil, its possible use as an adulterant in lard and its detection." The address of Assistant Professor Evans, presented before the Association of the Ohio Teachers of Mathematics and Science, on "The present position of the Atomic Theory," will also be published shortly in their journal.

Attention is called to the increasing difficulty in securing fellows in the department. The demand for graduates of the University in the various lines of chemical work, with good salaries, is the cause of this. I believe that it will be necessary to increase the salaries connected with the fellowships if this system is to continue.

Finally, I wish to add that all of the instructors have uniformly worked hard in strengthening the department. Associate Professor Henderson is building up a very strong course in that very important branch of chemistry, namely, physical chemistry. The laboratory has been partly equipped and this year, for the first time, a course has been offered in laboratory work. Associate Professor Henderson has practically complete charge of this work as well as that of the advanced general chemistry. Likewise, Associate Professor Foulk has had practically complete charge of the course in analytical chemistry and has made it thorough and effective. Two of his advanced students have this year done work that is deserving of publication. I am under great obligations to all of the instructors for their uniform efforts in building up the department.

DEPARTMENT OF DAIRYING.

PROFESSOR JOHN W. DECKER.

During the past year Mr. Guthrie has done considerable field work, but, beginning with next Fall he will have to spend his time largely in class room and laboratory work. During the past year he has carried on field work at creameries located in Ashtabula, Warren, Darke, Delaware, Fulton, Fairfield, Gallia, Trumbull, Columbiana, Mahoning, and Union counties, which you see are distributed over different sections of the state, and he has become acquainted with the conditions as they exist in different parts of the state which will make him a more valuable instructor. His work has been to test the milk at these places; make butter; and hold meetings for the farmers sending milk to these places and discuss the practical problems of producing milk and urging them to make a study of what their cows are actually doing, and he has thus done considerable valuable work for the farmers directly. He has gathered a list of nearly 400 names of prominent dairymen in these different sections. It is evident that this work has set a good many farmers to thinking, for we have received a good many letters inquiring about how to feed their cattle and we have received a good many samples of milk and cream to be tested for butterfat.

This work of testing samples has grown in the past year and farmers are coming to us for help and advice more than in the past.

Last July the Dairy Instructors and Investigators of the Agricultural Colleges of the country met at the University of Illinois for a two days' conference and formed a permanent organization. We expect to get together next Fall at the National Dairy Show which will be held in Chicago in October. A movement is on foot to procure uniformity in the official testing of dairy cattle. We have done considerable of this work in Ohio during the past year. It brings with it a good deal of annoyance and trouble but we are almost under obligations to do this work, as the different breeders' associations look to the Experiment Station or College to make official disinterested tests of their cows for advanced registry. The Holstein-Friesian Association requires tests for 7 consecutive days and sometimes for 30 days. The Ayrshires require samples to be sent in once a month to be tested each month for a year. The Guernsey Association requires tests to be made at the farm by a representative of the Agricultural College once a month for a year, and the Jerseys require a 2 days test at the farm once a month for a year.

We have found it difficult to find competent help to do this work.

During the past year we have had two herds of Ayrshires on our list; half a dozen different herds of Holstein-Friesian; one Guernsey cow; and, beginning with February, a herd of Guernseys near Youngstown (the last test included 10 cows and they wished to increase the number to 20). Mr. E. R. Minns, a graduate of this College, whom I believe you will remember, has charge of this herd.

As you know, the business of the department has increased in the buttermaking line, so that we have a permanent supply of milk and cream for our instructional work. At the same time we are training half a dozen young men in practical work and assisting them to maintain themselves in the University.

While all these things are valuable and to our advantage, it takes considerable time to manage all the details.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS AND SOCIOLOGY

PROFESSOR J. E. HAGERTY

I have nothing of importance to note aside from the Bulletin on Business Administration and Social Service, and what it contains.

Publications. I have contributed two articles to the Journal of Accountancy, in the May number, Commercial Credit, and in the June number, The Credit Man. These articles are in a series which will be contributed to this magazine, on Commercial Credit.

Dr. Hammond has contributed the following articles, "Teaching Elementary Economics," The Dial for 1906; a Book Review in the Yale Review, Sidney Chapman, the Lancashire Cotton Industry. Dr. Hammond is also contributing a section on cotton manufacturing in the United States for an Economic History of the United States which is undertaken under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution.

Mr. John C. Duncan is contributing a series of articles in The Business World, on The Economic Side of Works Management.

With respect to work done by members of the department apart from ordinary class work, we have the following to submit:

I am Chairman of the Committee on Charities of the Board of Trade, a member of the Godman Guild Council, a member of the Board of Directors of the Associated Charities, of the County Board of Visitors, Chairman of the section on Social Settlements and Colleges of the State Conference of Charities and Corrections.

Dr. Hammond is Chairman of the Committee on Statistics of the Board of Trade.

Dr. McKenzie is a member of the Godman Guild Council, and was instrumental in organizing social work at the Medary School, and Mr. Duncan is doing settlement work in connection with the West Side Settlement.

DEPARTMENT OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

PROFESSOR F. C. CALDWELL

Now, for the first time in several years, we have sufficient equipment of direct current measuring instruments so that we are able to carry our classes without any serious inconvenience. We have not yet reached this stage with our alternating current equipment. We have received from the Western Electric Company, a valuable donation of telephone switchboard apparatus which will enable us to considerably increase the efficiency of our telephone engineering instruction. In connection with this donation we have received the loan, for an indefinite period from the American Bell Telephone Company, of transmitters and receivers sufficient to complete the donation of the Western Electric Co.

One of the students is constructing as thesis work an artificial telephone cable which will be valuable for experimental telephone work. We have also purchased a small amount of telephone apparatus, so that in this line we are much better off than we have been heretofore.

Publications. Last fall a new edition of "The Laboratory Notes and Questions," by F. C. Caldwell and F. A. Fish, the latter formerly of this department, was published. A valuable contribution to the subject of Transformer Design by Professor Coggeshall, has been published in the Electrical World. A joint paper upon the Testing of Interurban Railways was read by Professor Hitchcock and the writer before The Ohio Society of Mechanical, Electrical and Steam Engineers at the Pittsburg meeting in November.

Of course, the great point of interest in the work of the department this past year has been the planning of the new laboratory building.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

PROFESSOR J. V. DENNEY

What may properly be called University Extension Work of a voluntary character has been done by Professors Denney, Barrows, and Associate Professor Taylor. Professor Denney has given a course in Celtic Literature before the Associated Collegiate Alumnae; as well as several weeks of work in Ohio Institutes, and will give two courses in English Literature in the summer session of Columbia University, New York. Professor Barrows has conducted an Auditor's course in English Literature at the University for the benefit of Columbus teachers, which has been well attended through the year. Professor Taylor has given a course in Recent Novelists to a group of students in the city and several single addresses before Saturday institutes in various parts of the state.

It should be added that Mr. Blanchard, who is in charge of debating at the University, has conducted voluntary classes in public speaking, four hours each week, with an enrollment of seventy students from the Colleges of Arts and Law. A great revival of interest in public speaking and debate is the direct result of Mr. Blanchard's thorough work.

Publications. Assistant Professor Graves has contributed poems to Scribner's Magazine (August and May) and to McClure's (May). Assistant Professor McKnight has edited King Horn in the Early English Text Society Publications and has published a research on Scriptural Names in Early Middle English, in the publications of the Modern Language Association of America.

DEPARTMENT OF EUROPEAN HISTORY

PROFESSOR WILBUR H. SIEBERT

The Department of European History was favored this year, as last, with appropriations amounting to $250.00 for the purchase of books. This sum has been applied partly in the securing of extended sets, long needed, in both English and European History, and partly in the purchase of a number of single volumes and special treatises dealing with limited periods and subjects.

In May, the department received its annual gifts of $100.00 each from Messrs. John and Louis Siebert for the Siebert collection of German History in the University Library. The amount which now stands to the credit of the Siebert fund is $656.83. The reasons for permitting the fund to accumulate have been, first, to make some large special purchases, and second, to have the means on hand for use when a course in German History shall be offered in the department. Such a course is beginning to be called for.

The Newman Club of the University have secured $50.00 for the purchase of historical works of Catholic authorship, and expect to do as well as this, or better, each year until the Library can be supplied with a number of books which it lacks at present.

Publications. There is little or nothing new to report in the way of publications by the members of the department. During the summer of 1906 Professor Siebert spent several weeks in Nova Scotia and Ottawa, Ontario, collecting material relating to the Loyalists in Canada, and he is now preparing a bibliography on that subject. As a member of the Bibliographical Committee of the American Historical Association, he has given some attention also to a check list of the chief collections of sources of European History in American libraries, which this committee has in hand. Last year 1,000 series were included in the check list. The list will be extended this year to contain nearly twice that number. It is probable that the work will be published before the end of the year.

DEPARTMENT OF GEOLOGY

PROFESSOR J. A. BOWNOCKER

The removal of the Ceramic Department from Orton Hall resulted in the Department of Geology gaining two rooms, and both were assigned for work in Physical Geography. Of these the room on the main floor is used for the study of maps and models and for other work of a laboratory nature. Much of the appropriation for this year was used in equipping this laboratory and much remains to be done. The basement room has been equipped as a wet laboratory, and will, I think, be of material assistance in demonstrating the work of running water.

All members of the department have been doing research work in addition to the routine teaching.

Publications. The following is a list of the publications by members of the department:

BY PROFESSOR BOWNOCKER

Salt Deposits and the Salt Industry in Ohio. Bull. 8 Geol. Sur. of Ohio.
The San Francisco Earthquake. Ohio Educational Monthly, November, 1906.

BY PROFESSOR HUBBARD

Professor Hubbard has ready for publication one article on the Preglacial Topography of Ohio, and is preparing a report on the Physiography of our state under the auspices of the Geological Survey.

BY MR. C. R. STAUFFER

Mr. Stauffer has had an article accepted for publication by the Journal of Geology (University of Chicago), and this contribution will doubtless soon be in print.

Mr. Stauffer, after a year of faithful services here as substitute for Professor Prosser, leaves for the University of Chicago where he has been appointed Fellow in Geology.

Mr. Hyde (class 1906), who has been holding a scholarship in Geology in Columbia, this year has been appointed Fellow for next year.

The number of advanced students in the department is smaller than last year, owing probably to the absence of Professor Prosser.

The total enrollment of students in the department is larger than ever, and will probably increase from year to year. Details as to courses and the hours of the teaching staff may be found in the term reports.

The year has passed without friction in the department, and so far as I can judge, good work has been done.

DEPARTMENT OF GERMANIC LANGUAGES AND LITERATURES

PROFESSOR LEWIS A. RHOADES

In the way of new equipment the department of Germanic Languages and Literatures will greatly increase its library during the coming year. This is made possible by the generosity of a number of citizens of Columbus, who have at my solicitation placed in my hands the sum of $1,860.00. This sum will so supplement our present collection that, augmented by the Siebert library, we shall be one of the best equipped institutions for the study of modern German Literature.

Publications. I have, in co-operation with Miss Lydia Schneider, published a German Primer for use in the elementary grades. The series will doubtless be continued. I have also a volume of selections from Schiller's Poems, edited with notes and vocabulary, in press with the American Book Company. A revision of Becker's Elements of German, published by Scott, Foresman & Co., will appear during the year. The book has at present many good qualities and is meeting with a deserved success, but the publishers felt it might be improved and better adapted to the needs of elementary pupils in the high school. The revision amounts to a re-writing of the book; it will be published during the coming year.

Professor Viles has in preparation a volume of advanced German Prose Composition, and his notes and vocabulary indicate that it will be one of the best books of the kind. He has also recently published an excellent article in German on Esperanto. Dr. Thomas and Dr. Busse both have German texts edited for school and college use in press.

The work of the German Club deserves a word of commendation. The organization is entirely in the hands of the students. Their essays, debates, and literary exercises, all carried on in German, are a valuable aid in promoting interest in the department. Dr. Viles and Miss Thomas have both shown great interest and tact in encouraging this work.

DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL ARTS

PROFESSOR F. E. SANBORN

We desired to learn what brand of emery cloth or similar abrasive material it was best to purchase. This led to a few rough experiments and these to a series of more elaborate tests. The tests are such as will determine the rate of cutting on different material under different pressures per square inch, using different grades and makes of cloth: also the life of the cloth and total amount of material cut away by each sample. These are not carried far enough as yet to warrant any general conclusions but have already brought out some interesting points. These tests were carried on in the Fall term and the Christmas holidays, Mr. Case doing most of the testing, under the direction of Assistant Professor Knight and aided by Mr. Moore. The tests were discontinued for the present as the machine used for them was needed for class purposes.

An arbor press has been designed by Professor Knight and built in the shops and is now part of the equipment of the machine shop. It has some original features of design and works well. The machine work upon it was done mostly by students as class work.

An instrument has been devised by Professor Knight by means of which a diagram can be drawn on smoked glass and the divergence from a true circle, both as to the curve as a whole and as to the irregularities of the surface, shown magnified fifty times. This is preliminary to a proposed investigation on the correctness of cylinders turned by tools with points rounded to different radii. Some method of grinding the tools in this shape was needed and a device for this is now being made which will be an attachment for the Greenfield tool grinder.

The gyroscope for Professor Kester of the Physics Department is being constructed in the machine shop by Professor Knight. It is a fine piece of work and embodies many points of construction valuable to the advanced students.

DEPARTMENT OF LATIN

PROFESSOR S. C. DERBY

For the Department of Latin the current year has been marked by important additions to its equipment, viz.:

1. A nearly complete set of the Revue de Philologie, the foremost classical periodical published by French scholars. Thus far our collection of similar periodicals has included the work of German, English, and American writers only; hence the department was especially pleased to receive the productions of a different though no less meritorious group of scholars.

2. A set, complete to date, of the costly folios of the great collection of Latin inscriptions,—the Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum, a work which begun nearly fifty years ago, will not be completed until the last Latin inscription has been unearthed, edited, and added to its pages.

Publications. Our list of publications though creditable, is too brief. Associate Professor Hodgman has prepared a substantial article, 40 to 50 pp. in length, entitled, "Verb Forms in Plautus," which is due to appear in the April and July numbers (1907) of the Classical Quarterly, London.

It is a gratifying circumstance that the department has this year five graduate students, candidates for the M. A. degree in June, who have taken their major study in Latin.

DEPARTMENT OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

PROFESSOR WM. T. MAGRUDER

I rejoice to say that the most "noteworthy change in the equipment of this department" is the beginning of a new building. This in itself is sufficient evidence of the progress that is being made by us. That it has within it the possibilities of becoming a well-equipped laboratory indicates some appreciation of the work which has been done by the members of the department under adverse circumstances.

Publications. I would mention the paper by Assistant Professors Horace Judd and Roy S. King, which was presented at the Ithaca Meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in June, 1906, and which I had the honor to read as Secretary, and the pleasure to defend most successfully. The subject was "Some Experiments with the Frictionless Orifice." Besides being published in my official report in "Science" it was published with illustrations in "The Engineering News." It established new values for old constants and hence was attacked and needed defending. It showed the character of the men and the work done at this institution in this department.

As president of the Ohio Society of Mechanical, Electrical, and Steam Engineers, it was my privilege to give as my annual address at Akron last November, a review of the "Present Status of Technical Education in Ohio." The paper was extracted by a number of the technical papers of the country, and has been published as a University Bulletin.

My official reports as Secretary of Section D of the American Association for the Advancement of Science appear as heretofore in "Science," and I trust do something towards establishing and maintaining the reputation of the University for scientific interest.

DEPARTMENT OF MECHANICS

PROFESSOR JAMES E. BOYD

The department was organized in 1906 with myself as Professor, Dr. E. F. Coddington as Assistant Professor, and Mr. J. H. Kindle as Fellow. Mr. Kindle resigned, April, 1907, to accept a position in the Zanesville High School, and his work is being carried for the remainder of the year by Messrs. Borchers and Crabbs, seniors in Civil Engineering.

The work of the department has been carried along practically the same lines as heretofore. There has been the advantage that we have had the exclusive use of a class room in the Mines Building, and some money for equipment. This room is one of those intended for the museum of Mining and Metallurgy. It is 34 feet by 31 feet, is provided with 90 feet of blackboard, and is admirably adapted for our use. During the Fall and Winter terms, the other sections reciting at the same hour have used the lecture rooms of Metallurgy and Ceramics. During the present term, we are holding two sections in the Law Building, and one section in the lecture room of the Mining Department.

When experimental work is given, the two sections reciting at the same hour have either exchanged rooms, or two sections have been brought together in the same room for a part or all of a period. The ideal plan would be to have two rooms similar to this one with a small apparatus room between them. It is hoped that this arrangement can be secured in the proposed Mechanical Building.

This room is provided with a heavy lecture table, to which is attached a frame for supporting the apparatus. The apparatus which we have consists of a few simple pieces which have been designed or adapted for our purpose. These include a delicate platform scales, spring balances, a screw, which combined with knife edges and beams enables us to test small beams and columns, clamps, pulleys, ropes, and weights. Among the special apparatus we have:

A graduated circle three feet in diameter to determine angles in the demonstration of forces in equilibrium.

A "frictionless rod" provided with rollers at the ends.

Clamps to be used with knife edge in adjusting the load to the center of a column with "round ends."

Apparatus for demonstrating the acceleration of the Atwood machine.

An Atwood machine mounted on a balance beam with one cord in the vertical plane of the knife edge, thus measuring directly the accelerating force on the mass supported by the other cord.

In these experiments it is our aim to give a few demonstrations on a sufficiently large scale to bring out the details and have the class work out the results at once. Usually members of the class are asked to take the actual measurements.

The results have been quite satisfactory. We believe that the students have gained a better idea of the physical basis of mechanics than heretofore.

The present year has been devoted to bringing up the work of the junior Engineering Mechanics (which is elected by several Arts students and a few graduates) and we have made no attempt to offer any advanced courses. We hope after another year to be prepared to give one graduate course, which shall consist of considerable theory together with a limited amount of laboratory work.

Publications. At the December meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, I read a brief paper on "Theory of Horizontal Compression Members with Eccentric Pin Connections," which was afterward (April 11, 1907) printed in the Engineering News.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

CAPTAIN GEO. L. CONVERSE, U. S. A.

The year opened with an enrollment of 1,025 students, of which number 86 were excused without credit; 52 for over-age; 24 for physical disabilities; 12 because of membership in the Quaker Church; and 22 because of citizenship in foreign countries. During the fall term 18 men were excused to take part in football. The actual attendance at drill during the fall term averaged 833. We have as officers and in the band, volunteers for drill to the number of about twenty.

On account of the changes in the basement of the Gymnasium which were not completed until along in January of 1907, and because of lack of sufficient number of arms, the cadet regiment was confined, in its work, during the fall term to the setting-up exercises and marching, except in the three companies, which are composed of sophomores, who were armed and included in their drill both close order and extended order work.

The winter term was devoted entirely to theoretical instruction, all students of the regiment being required to recite in tactics and attend lectures on military customs and subjects in the chapel. Each captain of a company held recitations for his company on Tuesday and Wednesday; each major of a battalion held recitations for the non-commissioned officers of his battalion on Tuesday and Wednesday; the colonel of the regiment held recitations for all commissioned officers, except captains, on Tuesday and Wednesday. While the work done in recitations was not uniform in the different companies, the term's work demonstrates the possibility of having each man fairly well instructed in tactics, and the rapid improvement of the regiment in the spring term field work showed the value of this theoretical instruction. A gallery target was constructed in the basement of the Gymnasium with five slide targets. A range of 72 feet was obtained and the one-hundred-yard target reduced for 75 foot range, was used. The range was open on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, students being allowed to shoot at such time as did not conflict with their studies. Every student in the regiment fired ten shots and three of the companies had fifteen shots each. On Friday of each week the gallery was reserved for the use of the officers. It is the intention of the U. S. Government to issue a limited amount of ammunition to colleges for gallery practice. This, with the help that can be given by the University, in the way of extra ammunition, should allow every student not less than fifty shots, hardly enough to make the ordinary man a good shot, but enough to give him a working knowledge of his weapon. The interest in gallery practice was not confined to the regiment, many students of other classes being allowed to take part. The Commandant of Cadets has recommended to the War Department that ammunition should be issued to colleges in such amounts as would allow all students to obtain a working knowledge of service guns.

The spring term was devoted to out-door drill entirely, although rain and snow interfered on several drill days. The Government Inspector appeared at the University on May 2nd for the annual inspection and a creditable showing was made, considering the short time the freshmen had been under arms (about eight drill days). Prize drill occurred on May 25th. Rain during the afternoon necessitated the completion of the drill on the following Tuesday, the judges on both days being United States Army officers. The results were as follows:

The President's sword to Company "D," Capt. Barker, with a yearly attendance of 95.8 %; the prize drill sword to Company "A," Capt. Hugger, with 90.17 %. Individual prizes were won by M. C. Ebright, first prize; R. C. Harsh, second prize; C. I. Rush, third prize; J. W. Nesbitt, fourth prize; C. W. Clark, fifth prize. The Orton Medals were presented to members of the prize winning company.

An entirely new equipment composed of Krag-Jorgenson rifles, with web belts, has been received from the general government and will be ready for use as soon as gun racks can be constructed to receive and protect them.

The regimental band has been in very excellent shape this year, numbering 53 pieces in the fall term and 38 in the spring term. It has been a feature of the university and a decided attraction at all athletic events.

The need of a drill-hall is so apparent to all who have been in contact with the regiment this year, that a statement to that effect is almost unnecessary. The regiment has now grown to such size that its occupancy of the Gymnasium as a co-tenant with the department of physical education, is an impossibility. Within a year there will not be room enough in the Gymnasium to properly store the equipment of the regiment. Indoor work by the regiment, other than gallery practice, is entirely beyond question and results in the loss of many drill days during both spring and fall.

If it is proper, I would strongly urge that a suitable drill-hall be constructed at the earliest possible date. Such building would be of very general use, not only for military purposes, but also for all classes of indoor athletics and for the many large gatherings which occur at the university, too large to be properly cared for in the University Chapel. A series of columns not to exceed twelve feet in height, (with large doors between) supporting a roof would be comparatively inexpensive and of very general use.

I have heretofore called attention to the necessity of a more extended drill-ground and hope that by the beginning of the next school year, suitable grounds can be provided, on which can be drilled the entire regiment of three battalions.

The small amount of pay appropriated for cadet officers, has already resulted in universal interest among upper classmen, not less than thirteen seniors having at this date, June 1st, signified their intention of drilling next year.

The demerit system in force this year has appreciably reduced the number of conditions and failures among those compelled to drill.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

PROFESSOR B. F. THOMAS

The appropriation of ten thousand dollars made by the last Legislature, has enabled us to add many needed pieces of apparatus to our equipment. We have still something over three thousand left for use in providing the necessary equipment for the new work in experiments with the "Physics 2" class, and for other needed apparatus. The apparatus purchased has added much to the efficiency of and interest in our laboratory work.

Papers and Publications. The following papers have been read or published by members of the Department Staff during the year:

BY PROFESSOR A. D. COLE

Before the A. A. A. S., at New York, Dec. 1906, on "The Diffraction of Electrical Waves of Short Wave-length." Abstracted in "Science," April, 1907.

In the Physical Review, Sept., 1906, "The Use of the Wehnelt Interrupter with the Righi Exciter for Electric Waves."

BY DR. F. E. KESTER

Before the American Physical Society, at Chicago, "A Laboratory Gyroscope for Quantitative Measurements," and "Two Bridge Methods for the Comparison of Capacities."

BY DR. R. F. EARHART

Before the A. A. A. S., at Ithaca, New York, July 1906, "Spark Potentials in Liquid Dielectrics," published in the "Physical Review," November 1906. "Spark Potentials between Point and Plane (Preliminary)."

BY DR. F. K. BAILEY

"The Latent Heat of Recalescence in Iron and Steel." (Dissertation for the Ph. D. degree at Clark University.) Published in the "Physical Review," February 1907.

In my last report I alluded to the making of an appropriation from the "Rumford Fund," by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, to enable Dr. Kester to continue his research on the Joule-Thompson Effect in Gases. During the present year, the Academy has made an additional appropriation of $315.00 for this purpose, with which Dr.

Kester has purchased the balance of the necessary apparatus, and is now preparing it for use. The University is to be congratulated on this recognition of one of its men, and will doubtless win added renown as Dr. Kester publishes his results from time to time. The field he has entered will keep him at work for some time.

Dr. Earhart is continuing his work on Spark Potentials.

During the present month, the third annual meeting of the National Association of State Sealers of Weights and Measures was held at Washington, D. C. In obedience to the formal request of the governor of the state, I attended the meeting. The Association adopted a series of recommendations, to be reported by the several members to the governors of their respective states, with a view to securing uniform legislation as to weights and measures, and providing for systematic inspection of weighing and measuring devices and the enforcement of laws relating to them. It becomes my duty to lay these matters before the governor, and to aid in framing and securing the passage of proper legislation.

DEPARTMENT OF ZOOLOGY AND ENTOMOLOGY

PROFESSOR HERBERT OSBORN

The additions in equipment have been rather slight, except such as are due to the work of the members of the staff. Some additions have been made in the insect collections, but expansion in other directions is hampered by lack of space.

Publications. Of the publications issued from the department the two most important are, a paper by Professor Landacre published in the Journal of Comparative Neurology for January, representing an extended study, and a paper by Professor W. B. Herms prepared as his master's thesis and published in the Journal of Experimental Zoology early in the year. An extended study by Professor Ball, candidate for the Doctorate this year, will be published shortly in the proceedings by the Davenport Academy of Sciences. Studies by Professor Hine have been published in bulletins of the United States Bureau of Entomology. Some shorter papers by myself and Messrs. Young, Harned, Evans, and Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have appeared in the Ohio Naturalist, Journal of the Columbus Horticultural Society, the Proceedings of the Davenport Academy, and the Entomological News.

At the meeting of the Ohio Academy of Sciences in November all members of the department were present and papers were presented by Professors Landacre, Hine, Herms, and myself. The American Association for the Advancement of Science in New York was attended by Professors Landacre, Herms, Ball, and myself, and papers presented by myself and Professor Ball. In March I attended the American Society of Zoologists at Madison, Wisconsin. I have also given lectures of a general character before the Davenport Academy of Science and Field Museum of Chicago; also two lectures on insects here for the short winter course.

All members of the department staff have participated in the work of the Biological Club and of the Ohio Naturalist, which, although practically part of the department work, can hardly be considered as required in the regular routine. I will mention also that Professor Hine carried on work in Louisiana during the last summer vacation for the Bureau of Entomology in co-operation with the State Crop Pest Commission of Louisiana and Professor Landacre continued work in Chicago University toward his Doctor's degree.

LAKE LABORATORY, CEDAR POINT

HERBERT OSBORN, DIRECTOR

I have the pleasure of reporting a very successful year's work at the Lake Laboratory for the session recently closed. The number of enrolled students, while less than last year, included a larger proportion of advanced workers and the character of work done was, I believe, of a better grade than ever before.

The work of the instructors was eminently satisfactory, all working together with the utmost harmony, and the work accomplished by each was of excellent character. Aside from instruction work, all devoted a portion of time to investigation, the result of which, when published, will reflect much credit upon the institution.

Professor Landacre devoted his time particularly to further investigations upon development of fishes and has a paper upon the subject in an advanced stage of progress. Professor L. B. Walton continued investigations upon the Protozoa and the annelids and discovered a number of interesting new forms in both of these groups. He also, in connection with one of his students made an extended study of variation in certain species of fishes in reference to location and food supply. Professor E. L. Rice devoted considerable time to observations on the bird life of the locality, adding a number of species to the list hitherto known, and many records and observations with regard to a number of species hitherto recorded. This record will probably appear shortly in The Ohio Naturalist. Professor Guyer studied the spermatogenesis in dragon flies and made in connection with some of the graduate students a number of experimental studies on the reactions of various animals. Professor Stickney who had charge of the Botany, had quite full classes, and his time was very largely absorbed in teaching, but doubtless many of his observations upon the distribution and ecology of the plant life of the vicinity will prove valuable additions to our knowledge, and the work done by some of his advanced students will add to this materially. Mrs. Gilbert, who had general supervision of the young women, gave the very best of satisfaction. Among the investigators enrolled for independent work Mr. Harry Wieman, of Cincinnati University, studied the histogenesis of the heart muscles in fishes. Mr. J. N. Frank worked with Professor Landacre upon embryological studies of fishes. Miss Clara G. Mark collected and studied especially the plants of the sand dunes, while among the graduate students, Professor W. B. Herms worked upon the development of flies and experimented with their larvae and with certain other animals to determine responses to various stimuli. Miss Smead worked upon the aquatic mites; Mrs. Gilbert upon the galls and gall making insects; Mr. B. H. Ransom on the forest ecology of the vicinity; Miss Box on protozoa; Mr. Foltz on variation in fishes.

The plan of securing the services of instructors from other institutions in the state has certainly proved very satisfactory as we have not only secured very efficient service, but the association of a number of teachers in biology from the various Ohio institutions certainly promotes and creates cordial feeling, provides an opportunity for comparing methods, stimulates activity, and I am sure will result in benefit to the teaching of these subjects in all of the schools represented. Especially in lines of investigation, this close association and co-operation will serve to advance the knowledge of the subjects covered at the Laboratory. If the work of the Laboratory can accomplish within its sphere the same ends which are reached at Woods Holl for the territory which it serves, we will have done, I think, one of the best things possible for biological instruction and investigation in the state.

In order to more thoroughly protect the material collected at the Laboratory, I have arranged with the Sandusky High School to deposit, subject to our call, such things as cannot be very conveniently transferred to Columbus and back each year. This will allow the material to be of use to the teachers and students in the Sandusky High School and will be, I think, of mutual benefit.

To give a little more in detail the enrollment showing character of students and distribution, there were of the nineteen enrolled, nine graduates, eight of whom were teachers and represent for college connection, O. S. U., Cincinnati University, Kenyon College, Ohio Wesleyan University, Minnesota University, Chicago University, German Wallace College, Yale, Columbia University, Michigan University, while in teaching positions there were represented O. S. U., Cincinnati, Kenyon, O.

W. U., Denison, Toledo High School, Coshocton High School, and Painesville High School.

Summarizing the attendance including the previous six years during which instruction courses have been offered, we have a total enrollment of 152, 74 being college or university graduates, and 79 engaged in teaching either in college or High Schools, while the institutions represented include O. S. U., Cornell University, Denison University, Hiram College, Michigan University, Oberlin, Amherst, Cincinnati University, Depauw University, Chicago University, Nebraska University, Ohio Wesleyan University, German Wallace College, Otterbein, Lake Forest, North Western, Buchtel, Ohio University, Columbia University and Miami University. This will indicate the general distribution and character of training represented in the attendance and indicates the character of attendance which we may expect to attract in the work offered at the Laboratory. I believe we may properly emphasize the advanced and graduate work although I think we should continue the general courses adapted for teachers in High School or grade work, and continue our efforts to secure their attendance for the sake of the advantage to biological instruction in the state. While no decided changes of plan need be adopted, it seems to me that we might reach a larger number of desirable students by altering the arrangement concerning fees so as to agree more nearly with the terms offered in the Summer School, and I would suggest for consideration the adoption of the usual incidental fee for all who enroll for the six weeks and that a suitable charge be made for those who are provided with lodging room in the Laboratory and a reasonable fee for each Laboratory course pursued. This, while not likely to reduce the amount of fees paid in, would distribute the expenses in a way to correspond better with the terms in the Summer School. While it may not be desirable to attempt to draw from the regular Summer attendance in Columbus, it seems to me for those who desire the Biological courses, the item of expenses should not be too great a factor in determining choice of location. It was suggested by some members of the teaching force from other institutions that their institutions might undertake to maintain tables on the general plan which is adopted at Woods Holl, and if this would encourage the attendance of a greater number of students from other colleges in the State, it would certainly be a desirable feature. If, however, it should result in the feeling that without such a table, students from any particular institution would be less welcome, it would seem less desirable.

USE OF THE LIBRARY.

On the removal of the Ceramic Department from Orton Hall to the School of Mines Building, the Library was given two and a half rooms of the six formerly occupied by that Department. The work required in making these rooms suitable for Library purposes was not completed until the close of the fall term. Accordingly, during the first term of the year, the Main Library was in poor condition for use, and there was no attempt made to keep records of the attendance or of the use of the books within the Library. From January 2, 1907, until June 14, 1907, the regular reports were kept and the following is the table of the attendance in the Main Library during that period:

Total attendance	39,344
Average per month	6,557
Average per day	286
Largest day	551

The circulation of books during the same period was as follows:

Total circulation	4,986
Average per month	824
Average per day	36

The records for the Law Library covering the period from September 18, 1906, to June 15, 1907, are as follows:

Total attendance	25,127
Average per month	2,792
Average per day	118
Total number of books used.....	63,327
Average per month.....	7,036
Average per day	333

During this year the system of registering students in the Library was begun. Any student wishing to withdraw books from the Library was required first to present his Bursar's card, showing that he was registered in the University, and he was then registered in the Library. The total number of students registering between January 2 and June 14, 1907, was 329, while the number of students actually withdrawing books was 263.

CATALOGUING

The recataloguing of the Library has progressed very slowly during this year. The following is an extract from the report of the Head Cataloguer:

"Owing to the vacancy in the position of cataloguer for a large part of the year, and to other unsettled conditions, the amount of cataloguing work accomplished in the past year has been comparatively small. Still, the showing has not been discouraging, and a number of matters have been put upon a basis where they will present less obstacles to the work of the coming twelve months.

"The recataloguing of American History was completed by incorporating in the dictionary catalogue the cards for American local history and for such bound pamphlets as come under this division of the classification. These were several hundred in number. Nearly all government documents fell within this division, and which the Library had in cloth binding were recatalogued and shelved in American History.

"Shortly before this work was completed the Library was left without its one cataloguer who had been entirely free from the demands of reference work. But the remainder of the year the cataloguing force consisted of one cataloguer on about three-fourths time and one on probably one-third. From this time until the end of the year little more was done than to keep up with the current accessions."

STAFF

One new assistant was added to the Library Staff at the beginning of the year, Mr. Charles Wells Reeder, who came in as a reference assistant. Mr. Reeder had good preparation for his work and the year has proven his especial fitness for it.

Miss Ida M. Fisher, who held the position of Cataloguer, resigned on the first of October. To her fitness for her work was added a charming personality, which made our loss felt in personal as well as professional ways.

The other members of the Staff have remained the same during this year as the year previous, and have given the same efficient, conscientious service.

The position left vacant by the resignation of Miss Fisher was one we found hard to fill because of local conditions. Miss Lilian Davis of the Public Library of Cincinnati, who was awaiting the completion of the Norwood Branch of the Public Library before taking up the position of Librarian, gave us two months of very efficient help as Cataloguer. The remainder of the time the position was unfilled.

Very respectfully yours,

OLIVE JONES.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, October 1, 1908.

Honorable Andrew L. Harris, Governor of the State of Ohio:

SIR:—I have the honor to transmit herewith the thirty-eighth annual report of the Board of Trustees of the Ohio State University.

The report, as usual, contains such statements and exhibits as are necessary to show the financial transactions of the past year, and the manner in detail of receiving and disbursing the various funds; also such other information as may be of general interest or required by law.

The Annual Report of the President of the University to the Board of Trustees is made a part of this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CARL E. STEEB,
Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

October 1, 1908.

Hon. F. E. Pomerene, President of Board of Trustees, Ohio State University:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to present, through you, to the Board of Trustees of The Ohio State University for transmission to the Governor of Ohio, as required by law, the thirty-eighth annual report of the President of the Ohio State University for the year ending June 30, 1908.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

No changes have occurred during the current year in the membership of the Board of Trustees. The appointment of Hon. Oscar T. Corson for the term ending May, 1913, was confirmed by the Senate, as was also the appointment of the Hon. Walter J. Sears for the term ending May, 1914. The term of office of the Hon. John T. Mack having expired in May, 1908, he was reappointed by the governor subject to confirmation by the Senate at its next session. The importance of the University, the increasing attention needed due to its growth and expansion, alike suggest the importance of continuity in the membership of the Board. Causes beyond control bring about vacancies, and doing the best possible under the circumstances, men find it no small task to acquaint themselves with the history and conditions of the University necessary for intelligent administration. In past years the Board has been greatly increased in its efficiency by the intimate acquaintance of its members with the growth and development of the University. It is a matter of genuine satisfaction to see this policy continued.

FACULTY.

The year has been unusual in that the University has suffered the loss of three prominent members of the University faculty.

Joseph H. Outhwaite, dean of the College of Law, died December 9, 1907, at the age of 66 years. Mr. Outhwaite served for some time as a member of the Board of Trustees, and in 1905 was elected dean of the College of Law to succeed the late William Forrest

Hunter. Mr. Outhwaite began life as a teacher, soldier and attorney. He was a man of distinguished public service in Ohio and in the Congress of the United States, where he served for ten years. His high character, genial disposition, devotion to the work in hand, and his enthusiasm for the College of Law made him a most effective officer of the University. He had already shown his fitness for the office to which he had been elected and was beginning to make a place for himself in the field of legal education. His prospect of life led everyone to expect great things of him in the years of service to which all looked forward. Stricken with pneumonia, the end soon came; his loss was universally felt in all the circles in which he moved. The University records its appreciation both of his character and of his services and expresses its deep regret in his sudden death.

On January 19, 1908, Allen Campbell Barrows died suddenly from heart failure after a long academic experience. Dr. Barrows was a graduate of Western Reserve College, then at Hudson, Ohio, in 1861. After serving his country as a young soldier, he entered at once upon the profession of teaching, to which he gave his whole life. His services with The Ohio State University began in 1894 and closed with his death. A man of modest disposition, genuine devotion, of high ideals, of rare fidelity to his work, and beloved by his associates.

On March 8, 1908, Professor William Ashbrook Kellerman died of malignant malarial fever, after two days' illness, near Zacapa, a few miles distant from Guatemala City, while engaged in his fourth annual tour of investigation of the fauna and flora of that country. He was born at Ashville, Ohio, May 1, 1850; graduated from Cornell University in 1874, and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1881 at the University of Zurich. His service at The Ohio State University began in 1891. Dr. Kellerman was an enthusiastic botanist, a man of high scientific attainments, an untiring student with unbounded enthusiasm for his specialty. His devotion to the cause of science drew him apart from many other activities, but multiplied his labors both in writing and teaching. His services to the state may be suggested by the fact that he made a comprehensive investigation of the flora of Ohio, developed the state herbarium and in general aroused enthusiasm among his students. His contributions to botany prove his high standing as an investigator. His death was a serious loss to the University and to the cause of Science.

During the year, fifteen of the younger members of the instructional force were promoted to the title of professor and given seats in the University Faculty. The majority of these men have served the University in one capacity or another from eight to fifteen years. In one or two instances the services had reached the period of twenty years. In some instances the men had served in other universities a number of years before accepting service at The Ohio State University. The action was somewhat unusual in promoting so many at one time, but it seemed a desirable recognition of the character and services of a considerable group of men. The regret in connection with such action is that the University was not able to make suitable recognition also in the matter of salary. A man who gives his life to the profession of teaching should, at some time, naturally expect full academic recognition and also a reasonable maintenance. It did not seem wise in these cases to delay the academic recognition longer, and it is hoped that the financial provision of these men and others will be made at an early date.

In addition to the promotions mentioned above, a number of the younger men were promoted to associate professorships and a considerable number of new appointments were made to meet the demands of a growing enrollment. It is a matter of gratification to know that the legislature, at its recent session, repealed the statute placing a limitation upon the salary of a professor. This opens the way for the trustees, so far as funds will permit, to make recognition of superior men and to protect the University against the danger of removal of men to more remunerative or more attractive fields.

ENROLLMENT.

The records for the year show a total enrollment of 2,686. This is an increase of 409 over the previous year. Two colleges, namely, the College of Law and the College of Pharmacy, show a slight decrease in attendance. All others show an increase, and the College of Education appears for the first time with an initial enrollment of 28 students. The attendance continues to manifest the influence of the University over the state. Every county is represented in the attendance, and in the main, the more populous centers furnish the larger number of students. The number of students outside of the state is not large, but very widely spread. Thirty-three states and foreign countries are represented in the roll of attendance. These facts indicate that former residents of Ohio and alumni are beginning to return their children to the home state for education, and that the type of education here furnished is attractive and interesting to the residents of the Argentine Republic and a few other countries. These foreign students are chiefly interested in agriculture and technical education.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The summer term for 1907 showed an enrollment as follows:

Civil Engineering	11
Specials in Drawing	13
Engineers in Shopwork	80
Special in Mathematics	2
Lake Laboratory	26
Total	438

The record for three years shows the following attendance, namely, 332, 425 and 438. The records also show that an increasing number are coming with University education. There were 60 in 1907 who had college degrees. It is gratifying also to see that a considerable number of persons returned for a second summer, and a good proportion for the third summer. The faculty of the summer term recommended and the University Faculty approved a plan to extend the term from six to eight weeks, beginning with 1908. The experience of the three summers demonstrates that there is a growing field for the type of summer school operated by the University. It is not the purpose to carry on elementary education, such as is legitimately the function of the normal schools and other private summer schools, but to afford an education on a university basis for such teachers and others as may find themselves able to make use of the facilities afforded.

LAKE LABORATORY

The statistics for the Lake Laboratory appear in the summary above, but it is worth while to direct attention to the fact that this work is of an importance quite beyond the ordinary summer school experience. The instructional force is composed of selected men from colleges in Ohio and elsewhere, and the student body is chiefly made up of science teachers and advanced students of science. For 1907 there were students from Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Oregon and the District of Columbia. In Ohio, students were present from ten different colleges. This brings together a very desirable body of young scientists and of persons interested in scientific research. The report of Professor Osborn, Director of the Lake Laboratory, is given in full in this report.

THE WINTER COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

The second experiment with a ten weeks' course in Agriculture beginning after the holidays, resulted in an attendance of 193 as against 136 for the preceding year. This increase is one evidence of the wisdom of this attempt to meet, in a practical way, the needs of young farmers without attempting to impose upon them the academic conditions usual in the case of students pursuing regular courses. In this work, emphasis has been put upon the study of crops and crop conditions, the testing of seed for crops, practical live stock judging, dairying, some work in Horticulture, and such practical themes as would be of immediate service. As soon as facilities can be provided it is hoped that something may be done in the way of instruction in the elements of wood working and forging so that a farmer may be prepared to equip a simple shop that will be a great saving, both of time and money, on the farm. The effort already made to meet the needs of farmers has proved that something can be done of real value. The University will address itself to this problem in the future, making a careful study of such needs as may be reasonably well met by attendance upon one or two terms during the winter season. The series of lectures delivered by men of successful experience has proved to be both attractive and helpful. The services of Director C. E. Thorne of the Experiment Station served a good purpose not only to acquaint the young men with the problems of agriculture, but to acquaint them with the work of the Station itself, and of its relation to the College of Agriculture, and to the practical farming of the state.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND ATHLETICS

In the summer of 1907 a reorganization of the department of Physical Education, as also in some degree of Athletics, was decided upon, and Dr. Wingert was called to take charge of the reorganized work. The reorganization provided that the Professor of Physical Education should also have an official relation to the management of athletics so that all the physical activities should be under one management. This plan has worked very successfully for the past year, and gives promise of furnishing a practical solution of many of the difficulties associated with physical education and with athletics. The Athletic Board in charge of the financial and administrative side of athletics has proved its efficiency and co-operates heartily with the general management of the Professor in Physical Education.

In connection with the reorganization the University made some changes in the Gymnasium building by which a large room was provided in the basement for the use of students, thus making it possible for the young men to use that part of the building in the morning, while the young women use the large floor. In the afternoon the basement floor is used by the cadets for rifle practice and the large floor by the young men. These changes have made the building more effective than before and have furnished opportunity for increased work in physical education. Aside from the ordinary gymnasium work in which 300 young men engage voluntarily, there are 24 classes each week making provision for the work now required of all students by the faculty.

During the past year 1,236 physical examinations were made. These examinations reveal a considerable number of physical defects which it was the aim of the instruction to correct. The report shows concerning these defects, as follows:

Uneven shoulders	28%
Flat, narrow chest and stoop shoulder.....	26%
Spinal curvature	19%
Faulty posture	35%
Defective vision	8%
Defective hearing	4%

The result of the year's work showed that in most of these defects there was a substantial decrease. In addition to this the department has made a special study of the functional disorders found in the average student resulting from the sudden change of life to the less active physical pursuits of study life.

The aim of the department has been to put games on a recreative basis so as to engage large numbers of men in the various forms of physical exercises. The following table will show the number of students engaged in these exercises:

Association football	240
Baseball	95
Boxing	40
Fencing	29
Tennis	108

In addition to this it is expected that instruction will be given in the art of swimming as one of the best all around exercises known. The department has also given a series of practical talks and some demonstrations on person and public hygiene, aid to the injured, and methods of correct living.

For the first time the new rule for intercollegiate athletics prohibiting first year students from engaging in such contests was in force. This resulted in a slight temporary decrease of available men for intercollegiate athletics, but the general effect of such rule has been so good as to warrant the enactment. Now that the experience has been so satisfactory it is probable that the rule will be sustained for all time to come. The first business of a freshman in college is to make and sustain his academic standing. The fact that he cannot engage in intercollegiate athletics is a distinct encouragement in the right direction. The large number of first year men who fail to maintain themselves will probably suggest within a few years that the privileges of such men in outside organizations should be restricted and practically all their physical, social and intellectual activities be under the direction of the University. Experience has well demonstrated that the University knows better how a student's time should be used than most freshmen. When freshmen are wiser, the University will be more effective.

APPROPRIATIONS

The Legislature, at its last session, from January to May, 1908, made the most liberal provision ever made for the University. The following list of appropriations will suggest the generosity of the Legislature :

Equipment and heating of Women's Dormitory.....	$ 15,000
Equipment of Engineering Laboratory	20,000
Equipment Agricultural Building	5,000
Equipment School of Mines Building.....	9,000
Equipment of Chemistry Building.....	10,000
Equipment Agricultural Chemistry Laboratory.....	4,000
Equipment Bacteriological Laboratory	1,000
Equipment Veterinary Medicine	1,500
Veterinary Clinic Building and Equipment.....	90,000
Fire Proof Chemical Store Room.....	10,000
Encouragement and improvement dairy industry.....	2,500
Construction and equipment of Students' Building; plans to be approved by an honorary commission of five to be appointed by the Governor, and who shall serve without compensation.	75,000
Tunnel to Engineering Laboratory.....	6,300
Equipment of Power House.....	12,500
Electric wiring and connections for Agricultural Buildings....	500
Total	$262,300

Of the above appropriations, the one for the encouragement and improvement of the dairy industry was not available for the reason that the appropriation bill provided that the money should be expended in accordance with the provisions of House Joint Resolution No. 100. That resolution was never passed and upon this technicality the money could not be expended.

In addition to the above resources the University receives from the State the levy of sixteen one-hundredths of a mill upon the grand duplicate and the interest on the endowment fund. The funds from the Federal Government arising from the second Morrill Act of 1890 have been increased by Act of Congress in the amount of $5,000 annually until $50,000 shall have been raised. This is a distinct advance on the part of the Federal Government toward the land grant colleges as provided for in the Act of 1862. The total resources of the University stated in detail will be found in the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer.

During the year the Trustees have begun the work of expending the special appropriations listed above. The Women's Dormitory will be ready for occupancy in September, 1908. The buildings for the College of Agriculture are practically completed, save the matter of equipment. The Engineering Laboratory has been partly occupied during the year and the installation of machinery and apparatus is being pushed as rapidly as the funds will permit.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS

It has been the custom in this report for several years to intimate what the chief needs of the University are as seen by the Trustees. The Legislature does not always follow the suggestions of the Trustees as to the most imperative needs, but has used its own discretion in making appropriations. These appropriations have always provided for real needs of the University, but they have not covered others quite as real and oftentimes more pressing than the ones provided for.

At present it should be emphasized that there are certain needs of the University with reference to the grounds and buildings that are of vital importance. I mention the necessity of keeping the Power plant adequate to the demands made upon it; the provision of a branch railway from the Hocking Valley to the Power House upon the University's own territory; the provision of an adequate system of sewers for sanitary purposes and a separate system for storm purposes. Certain roadways and sidewalks are important to the point of urgency, in order that buildings may be accessible.

Next in importance to this care of the plant, I may mention the necessity of adequate apparatus and equipment of the laboratories in which students are working. The Library should have an accession of $50,000 worth of books at once. The existing Library is carefully selected, but is lacking in a good many important features necessary to carry the advanced work in which both faculty and students are engaged. The tools with which men work, by which we mean the books and apparatus, are essential for the development of the right spirit of study and research, as well as for the matter of instruction.

The third line of appropriations should provide for adequate buildings. The State is unwilling, apparently, to construct fire proof buildings, but a comparison of the Ohio State University with similar State Universities in the Middle West will disclose the fact that few, if any, universities have been able to provide equal facilities for the money appropriated. Every facility afforded by the State at the University has been promptly used by increasing numbers of young men and young women. The State has no enterprise more important than that of education. Most of our buildings have been too small within three years from the time of their erection. This has resulted not only in crowded conditions, but in great inconvenience and in the unnecessary expense of spending money for temporary quarters. It would be a great satisfaction if the Legislature or its Finance Committees could find time enough to visit the University and make a careful study of its policies and its needs. It is not necessary to repeat in this report the statement concerning the demand for certain buildings or to outline future needs. These matters will be presented to the Legislature when opportunity is afforded.

Extracts from certain departmental reports and the statistical reports as required by law are herewith submitted and made a part of this report.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, I have the pleasure of reporting that the year has been full of activity and genuine co-operation on the part of the Trustees and the Faculty. No year is free from serious problems and important responsibilities, but the year closing June 30, 1908, has been marked by a steady progress and increasing efficiency.

Respectfully submitted,

W. O. THOMPSON,
President.

ANNUAL REPORT

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

June 30, 1908.

Hon. Andrew L. Harris, Governor of Ohio:

SIR:—In accordance with law, the Board of Trustees respectfully submits the thirty-eighth annual report of The Ohio State University, it being for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908.

ENDOWMENTS

The part of the irreducible debt of the state which forms the principal endowment of the University, at the date of the last annual report, June 30, 1907, was $807,730.55 on which the annual interest was $48,463.83.

Under the operations of an act of the General Assembly entitled, "An act to quiet title to unpatented lands in the Virginia Military District of Ohio," passed March 14, 1889, there has been added to the above principal $14,640.99; and from the rents and profits of Page Will Lands, and from the sale of said lands the sum of $5,627.50 has been added, making the principal endowment fund June 30, 1908, $827,999.04, on which the annual interest is $49,679.95.

THE WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN PRIZE

The Honorable William Jennings Bryan, on July 20, 1898, gave to the University $250.00, the annual interest thereon to be awarded as a prize for the best essay, discussing the principles which underlie our form of government. This amount was placed in the State Treasury under the provisions of Section 4105-15, R. S. of Ohio, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this principal has been augmented by additions of interest in years when no prize has been awarded, until at the close of the year covered by this report the principal sum has become $406.07, on which the annual interest is $24.36. During the past year no prize was awarded.

THE ROBINSON FELLOWSHIP IN ENGINEERING

January 28, 1905, Stillman W. Robinson, Emeritus Professor of Mechanical Engineering, gave to the University, as an endowment fund for a fellowship in Engineering, $5,000.00. This amount was placed in the State Treasury, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this amount has been increased in years when no fellowship was awarded, until at the close of this year the principal sum is $6,464.94, on which the annual interest is $387.89.

During the past year the fellowship was not awarded.

THE C. NEWTON BROWN SCHOLARSHIP FUND

The fund donated by the graduates of the Civil Engineering Department, for a fellowship in Civil Engineering, to carry the name of the C. N. Brown Scholarship, in memory of Professor C. Newton Brown, was started May 18, 1903, by a gift of $1,000. On December 1, 1904, a further gift of $92.09 was received, these amounts were at once placed in the State Treasury under statutes above mentioned, and under the operations of Section 4105-47, R. S. of Ohio, this fund has been increased, and on June 30, 1908, the principal sum was $1,460.37.

SETH ADAMS MEMORIAL FUND

As mentioned in the last annual report, Professor C. S. Plumb, of the Animal Husbandry Department, started on July 1, 1903, a popular subscription among the farmers of Ohio to erect a building for the care of sheep, said building to be named after the late Seth Adams. Starting at the above date with $52.72 this fund has increased by further donations and additions of interest, and on June 30, 1908, had increased to $439.76, which amount is invested in an interest-bearing certificate of deposit, placed with a local bank.

J. McLAIN SMITH FUND.

The amount of this fund on June 30, 1907, was $24,235.74. November 21, 1907, the executors paid in $927.77 as the fourth and final payment, making the principal sum $25,163.51. The interest due January 1, 1908, $733.24, and June 30, 1908, $754.90, was drawn and paid into the University Treasury; this with a balance of $47.99 carried forward from last year made a total income of $1,536.13, from which the following sums have been expended during the year:

A. B. Graham, annuity	$600 00
H. C. Ramsower, annuity	720 00
B. A. Anspen, annuity	75 00
A. A. Emrick, annuity	75 00
Alice Flory, annuity	50 00
Total	$1,520 00

Leaving a balance of $16.13 carried forward for the next year's payments.

In addition to the above there are still outstanding, and due March 1. 1913, two 5% mortgage notes aggregating $6,050.00.

SIEBERT LIBRARY OF GERMAN HISTORY

John Siebert and Louis Siebert, of Columbus, in the year 1902, started a fund for an alcove of Germany History to be known as the Siebert Library of German History.

By giving each year $200.00, this fund has reached to $1,400.00. The books have been selected under the direction of Professor W. H. Siebert, of the Department of European History.

NATIONAL BRICK MANUFACTURERS SCHOLARSHIP

The National Brick Manufacturers' Association has been supporting a scholarship in the Department of Ceramics, by giving annually to the University $250.00. The scholarship has now been in operation since 1898, and a total of $2,750.00 has been given for this fund.

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

July 1, 1908.

Dr. W. O. Thompson, President, Ohio State University:

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report on the University Library for the year ending June 30, 1908:

The number of books recorded on the accession books of the Library is 78,264. The number reported last year was 72,532, which shows an increase of 5,732. Of the volumes added during the year, 4,105 have been secured by purchase, 1,624 by gift, 1 by exchange and 2 by replacement.

The purchases of the year have been of unusual interest and value. Important sets have been completed and some very valuable new sets added. Among these may be specially noted the Annales de Chimie et de Physique, Morphologisches Jahrbuch and the Publications of the Societe des Anciens Textes Francais. The purchase of such valuable works has increased the cost per volume of books purchased, yet these are sets which will increase in value rather than decrease, and the Library is fortunate in securing them at the present prices.

The gifts to the Library still continue to be among its most important acquisitions. The great use made of the United States public documents and of the state documents shows how greatly the University is indebted to the government.

USE OF THE LIBRARY

Owing to the crowded condition of the Library rooms, there has necessarily been little increase in the use of the Library. The average attendance per day was 329, the largest attendance for any one day being 645.

This is the second year of the rule requiring students to register in the Library before the privilege of withdrawing books is granted. The total number of students registered during the year was 487 for the first term, 381 for the second term, and 244 for the third term. This is a condensed statement of the fact that the students are not doing much reading at home.

The average attendance per day at the Law Library was 102.

INSTRUCTION IN THE USE OF THE LIBRARY

It has long been the desire to give instruction in the use of the Library. This of course has been done for individuals in connection with the regular work of the Reference Librarians, and at various times in the past the Librarian has met groups of students and explained the use of the reference books and catalogues. For the last two years, the class in Agronomy 13 has been brought over for instruction in the use of the agricultural indexes and catalogues. Owing to lack of assistance this work could not be thoroughly organized, but during the latter part of this year more has been accomplished than at any time in the past.

Two lectures were given to the class in Agronomy by Mr. Reeder, the Assistant Reference Librarian. Instruction was given in the use of the Experiment Station Index and in the publications relating to agriculture issued by the United States Government. The second talk consisted of a lecture on the present organization and work of the Department of Agriculture. The senior and junior classes in Domestic Science were also met by Mr. Reeder, who gave a lecture on government documents, especially those of the United States Agricultural Department relating to food. At the beginning of the third term, Mr. Reeder met each section of a class in Economics 33, explaining the periodical indexes, the dictionary catalogue and the indexes of the government publications. In his report on this work, Mr. Reeder says: "The results of this work were apparent both in the class room (according to statements of the teaching force) and in the Library. In the latter place the students were more self-reliant than heretofore, making their own bibliographies. * * * Much use was made of the Industrial Commission Reports, the publications of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor, and the unbound documents and reports of the first session of the 60th Congress."

On May 7th an explanation of the catalogues was given by Miss Mirpah G. Blair, the Head Cataloguer. This was attended by about forty students and was found to be of great value.

It is the expectation to begin this work at the beginning of the next fall term, greatly amplifying and systematizing it. There is no work more important for a University Library than the work of instruction in the use of its materials, and it is a matter for congratulation that the way seems at last open to make it an integral part of the work of this Library.

A course of lectures has already been prepared for the Summer School, which is as follows:

"The General Organization of a Library"—Miss Olive Jones.

"Catalogues and Their Use"—Miss Mirpah G. Blair.

"Indexes and Bibliographies"—Miss Mirpah G. Blair.

"Dictionaries, General Encyclopedias and Gazetteers"—Miss Maud D. Jeffrey.

"Reference Books on Special Subjects"—Miss Maud D. Jeffrey.

"Government Documents"—Mr. Charles W. Reeder.

"The Use of Government Documents"—Mr. Charles W. Reeder.

STAFF

Mr. Max D. Morton, Head Cataloguer, resigned in August, 1907, and in November Miss Mirpah G. Blair of the Cincinnati Public Library was appointed to fill the position. Miss Blair took up the work December 1, 1907. Miss Lilian Huffman, Assistant Accession Librarian, was in March transferred from the Accession Department to the Catalogue Department, being appointed to the position of Cataloguer. The position made vacant by this transfer was filled in March by the appointment of Miss Ada S. Couillard from the staff of the Columbia University Library. So much of the work in the Catalogue Department is mechanical that for some time it has seemed to the Librarian a poor expenditure of money to take the time of a trained cataloguer for such work. After conference with the Head Cataloguer it was decided to try the experiment of securing an expert typewriter of good general education, who would be given this mechanical part of the work. Accordingly, Miss Blanche L. Seipel was appointed a temporary assistant in the Library from February 10 to June 30. Miss Seipel proved herself so well adapted to the work and the adjustment of the details of cataloguing was so facilitated by having such an assistant, that Miss Seipel was recommended for permanent employment as Catalogue Assistant, and takes up her regular duties July 1, 1908.

CATALOGUING

Owing to the changes in the Staff, the work of the Catalogue Department was much broken during the first half of the year. The following extracts are from the report of the Head Cataloguer for the six months ending June 30, 1908.

"Main entries	1,053
Volumes	2,669
L. C. cards	2,903
Typewritten cards	4,654
Name cards	1,319
Shelf-list cards	927
Subject cards	8,284
Department cards	111

The large number of subject cards is due to the copy made of the Library of Congress subject headings during the month of January. Over six thousand of these slips were made, the number being so large and the time for which the Library was able to have the lists so short, that extra help was secured. These subject headings have already been of much value.

Beginning with January 1 and accession number 74,293, all current accessions to the Library have been fully catalogued for the dictionary catalogue."

"Notices of new books have been sent each Monday to the members of the Faculty, and the books placed on the shelves at the same time, with a typewritten list on the bulletin board. The cards have been filed within twenty-four hours after the books were ready for exhibition."

"During the six months 812 orders for cards were sent to the Library of Congress, and 621 of these were filled with 6,758 cards at a cost of $46.66. The majority of these were received without any delay, only 56 being held for over a week."

Respectfully submitted,

OLIVE JONES,
Librarian.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, July 1, 1908.
